

Valley takes a soaking . will get more

The heaviest rainfall of the season left about a half-inch of moisture at most valley locations by midmorning today.

Highway patrolmen blamed the rain for a five-car crash on the San Bernardino Freeway.

The National Weather Service forecasts intermittent rain through today turning to heavy to moderate showers tonight and Tuesday.

Heavy rainfall is expected in the mountains and along the foothills.

The rainstorm struck Northern California Sunday and continued south through the night. Rain began falling in this area shortly before dawn today.

A very light rain barely dampened the valley three weeks ago, marking the end of the dry season.

Cool temperatures will prevail. A high of 67 is expected today, dropping to an overnight low tonight of 60. Tuesday's high will be 68.

The five-car "demolition derby"-type accident occurred at 7:30 this morning on the San Bernardino Freeway at Monte Vista Avenue in Montclair. No one was injured.

California Highway Patrol officer

Tom Dohnke said all cars were west-bound on the freeway when a small compact car driven by Marion Hamm, 52, of Upland, slowed suddenly on the rain-slicked freeway and spun.

Her car was struck by one driven by Sheryl Hullings, 20, of Ontario. A third car driven by Harold Pastel, 52, of Arleta came along and collided with Miss Hamm's auto.

Dohnke said a fourth car driven by Robert McDowell, 50, of Upland, then struck Pastel's auto in the rear. A fifth car, driven by Carol Smith, 25, of Upland, managed to join the collisions, striking Miss Hamm's car broadside.

Another $500,000 in Rocky loans disclosed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice presidential nominee Nelson A. Rockefeller today disclosed more loans totaling over half a million dollars he made since 1957 to an unidentified number of employees and 25 individuals, including $84,000 to former Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson.

Rockefeller's new list of loans, provided to the congressional committees considering his nomination, raised to more than $2 million the amount he said he had loaned in the past 17 years.

Most of these loans either have been repaid or forgiven by Rockefeller, who turned them into gifts, he said. The new list showed an outstanding balance of $147,733 still owed. The old list of loans showed $155,000 still outstanding.

Rockefeller, whose public support has dwindled during a series of financial disclosures following his nomination, said the list submitted today completed the tabulation of his loans.

Anderson received a loan of $80,000 on Jan. 2, 1957 and another of $24,000 on April 1, 1957, Rockefeller said. Both were listed as repaid on June 6, 1957, one month before Anderson became Treasury secretary under President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Rockefeller identified Anderson as "a long-time friend and former federal cabinet officer; private citizen" at the time of the loan.

Rockefeller also listed a $15,000 loan made Oct. 1, 1973, to his wife Margaretta F. "Happy" Rockefeller; plus loans of $27,000 in 1968 to Rodman Rockefeller, one of his sons, and $12,600 in 1971 to Steven C. Rockefeller, another son.

He said Mrs. Rockefeller had repaid $2,500 this past April. Rodman repaid $6,750 in 1973, and Steven repaid $3,150 in 1973 and 1974.

Rockefeller said his latest list, plus the earlier one provided to Congress and made public Oct. 11, put on the record "all of the loans that I have made to individuals for the period from 1957 through the third quarter of 1974."

"Virtually all of these loans were made to close personal friends, associates or members of my family," Rockefeller said.

The new list of loans was sent to Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate Rules Committee, and Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

The House committee is scheduled to begin examining Rockefeller's credentials Wednesday but final action by Congress on his nomination will not come until November. Rockefeller's support in Congress has cooled since President Ford originally nominated him.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Sunday the nomination "isn't in as good of shape as it was."

Newsweek magazine says support for the confirmation has dropped 11 per cent in one month.

In his statement today, Rockefeller said $10,586 had been loaned to various staff members on the New York State Temporary Commission on the Constitutional Convention as salary advances "during the period in 1958 in which legislative funding had terminated and prior to the establishment of new legislative funding."

Ford okays visit to India; sign of easing tension

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The United States and India officially ended three years of coolness today with word President Ford has accepted an invitation "in principle" to visit India at a date yet to be set.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi conferred twice during the day. Their meetings were described as friendly and upbeat.

Afterward U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan told reporters that Ford has agreed to visit India, though no date has been set. Moynihan said it would not be added to Ford's forthcoming trip to Japan, Korea and the Soviet Union.

The official announcement of Ford's acceptance of Mrs. Gandhi's invitation was expected to be included in the joint communique to be issued Tuesday when Kissinger leaves for Bangladesh on his month-long tour of nine countries.

Kissinger's two meetings with Mrs. Gandhi totalled one hour and 50 minutes. Between the two meetings, Kissinger conferred for two hours with Indian Foreign Minister Y. B. Chavan. The two men signed an agreement to set up a joint Indo-American Commission to promote trade, scientific and educational exchanges.

The cordiality of the Gandhi-Kissinger meetings appeared to have warmed up the cool relations between the United States and India which had persisted since the U. S. "tilt" towards Pakistan during the 1971 Indo-Pakistan war.

Mrs. Gandhi told newsmen that "the talks were good." Kissinger said they had gone "very well." American officials said the meetings were "friendly and removed past misunderstandings, and set the course for better relations."

2 valley residents are killed in head-on crash

Two drivers were killed early Sunday in the head-on collision of their cars on the Corona Expressway north of Garey Avenue.

One of the cars apparently crossed the dirt divider between the opposing traffic lanes, police said, and was going the wrong way.

The crash occurred shortly after 1 a.m. The victims were Mansoor Amirr Ahmadi, 46, 1514 W. Mission Blvd., Pomona, and Richard Gonzales Rodriguez, 40, 2478 Second St., La Verne.

There were no passengers in either car.

Both men were pronounced dead on arrival at Pomona Valley Community Hospital after being pried from the wreckage of their cars by fire department rescue workers.

Witnesses said they saw a cloud of dust before the crash and a flash as the cars collided. The dust cloud apparently was the result of one car crossing the divider.

Police said it appeared that the southbound car driven by Ahmadi was the one which crossed into the wrong lane and hit Rodriguez' northbound car head on.

The victims were the sixth and seventh persons injured fatally on Pomona city streets this year.

Rodriguez' body was taken to Todd Memorial Chapel in Pomona and Ahmadi's was taken to Blackman Mortuary in Pomona.

Rise in jobless rate predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two high-ranking administration officials predict unemployment may go up as the price of saving a sinking economy, but both say political pressure for more government controls will do nothing to help.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield calls it "just a matter of time" before wage-price controls are reimposed.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, who Sunday counseled against "hysterical hues and cries of depression," said mandatory oil controls are looming if conservation doesn't work.

He also said President Ford will not back down on his 5 per cent income surtax proposal, though the level at which it applies may be open to compromise.

Joining Simon in predicting unemployment may rise from the current 5.8 per cent to as much as 6.5 per cent by next spring was Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Greenspan said the short term economic outlook is dim.

He added: "By the spring of next year, I would expect a better price performance along with a higher rate of unemployment and a weakening level of business activity."

"What we have to be prepared to fend off under those circumstances are tremendous political pressures to expand quickly and excessively."

He called for a gradual policy of economic expansion, saying "Our present policies will work. All they have to do is be given time to work."

Southland haul nets $8 million in bogus money

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Secret Service agents Sunday made the largest seizure of counterfeit money in U.S. history—over $8 million in $5, $10 and $20 bills—and arrested four men.

Robert E. Powis, special agent in charge, said the arrests and confiscation of the bills ended three weeks of intensive investigation.

Arrested were Leonard O. Salmon, 39, Lakewood, Kenneth C. Wall, 48, Buena Park, Robert J. Spratte, 33, Whittier and Sam J. Anders, 35, Compton.

Most of the money—$7.5 million—was stacked inside a van. Over $750,000 in additional phony money was found at the Gus Printing Co., Hawaiian Gardens, which is owned by Wall.

Powis said that the offset printing press used to manufacture the bills was located at a residence in Cerritos.

Negatives and plates were allegedly made at the printing company, according to Powis, and the actual printing was done at the Cerritos residence. The van was enroute to the printing company for cutting the bills when it was seized, the agent said.

Powis said he was confident none of the bills had entered circulation.

British passenger ship gashed in gale

CHERBOURG, France (UPI) — The British passenger ship Queen Elizabeth 2 ripped loose from her mooring in a 63-mile-an-hour gale Sunday night, injuring two longshoremen and tearing an 82-foot gash in her side, maritime authorities said today.

Govt. ordered to hire 70,000 vets

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — President Ford said today Vietnam veterans are "the silent heroes of their generation" and ordered the federal government to hire 70,000 of them by July 1.

Speaking at an Arlington National Cemetery ceremony commemorating Veterans Day, Ford said action is underway to improve Veterans Administration services including its medical program.

Ford, who laid a wreath at the cemetery's Tomb of the Unknowns, also pledged he will "do everything possible" to make sure all the men missing in action in Southeast Asia are accounted for.

"It has been said that the forgotten men of the Vietnam conflict are those who served," Ford said. "They're the silent heroes of their generation. Too often, those who failed in their duty have monopolized the headlines and distorted the image of their generation."

"I intend to see that the silent heroes, the more than 6½ million Americans who served their country in the Vietnam era with quiet courage, are not forgotten."

Ford said an interagency task force has given him a "Jobs for Veterans Plan of Action." The plan is aimed at the federal government recruiting and hiring 70,000 Vietnam veterans by the fiscal year ending July 1, 1975.

"I am ordering federal departments and agencies to move, and move now, on this action plan to make sure these veterans are hired as quickly as possible," Ford said. He said "important progress is already being made. Unemployment among veterans has dropped since its peak in 1971."

He credited the National Alliance of Businessmen in this.

"This coming year they hope to provide 200,000 jobs for veterans, including the placement of 7,500 disabled veterans," he said. "They are doing a magnificent job..."

Ford was accorded a 21-gun salute when he arrived and again when he departed. Before going into the formal ceremonies he shook hands with each of the 15 members of the honor guard at the tomb. "Glad to meet you," Ford said to them. "Nice to meet you."

A SPECIAL LETTER

Doug, 6, and his mother, Mrs. Harry King of Ferndale, Mich., beam over a get-well note from President Ford. The youngster's hands were badly mangled and he lost several fingers earlier this month when a pipe bomb exploded in his hands while playing with friends. Herndale police said the bomb was deliberately planted but have no suspects as yet.

Hunt says Mitchell okayed plumbers' Watergate affair

WASHINGTON (UPI) — E. Howard Hunt Jr. testified today he was told "the big man" — meaning former Attorney General John N. Mitchell — approved a plan for bugging and burglarizing the national Democratic headquarters.

Hunt, who helped plan the 1972 Watergate break-in while serving as a member of the White House "plumbers" unit, testified in the Watergate cover-up trial as a "court witness" — a technique that allowed the prosecution to call him without vouching for the truthfulness of his testimony.

He said that in early April, 1972, G. Gordon Liddy, also connected with the plumbers, told him "the big man had said 'OK' and the word was go."

Hunt said that conversation followed several others in which Liddy had informed him of various planning meetings held with Mitchell, campaign manager for President Richard M. Nixon; Mitchell's deputy, Jeb Stuart Magruder, and then White House aide John W. Dean III about intelligence-gathering for the 1972 campaign.

Assistant Watergate prosecutor Richard Ben-Vineste asked Hunt whether Mitchell, one of five defendants in the trial, was known as "the Big Man."

"Yes sir, and-or as the Big Boy," Hunt replied.

Mitchell, sitting at the defense table, laughed at Hunt's reply.

Whether or not Mitchell approved the plan was not at issue in the trial. Instead, the defendants, all former Nixon associates, have been charged in connection with covering up high-level involvement in Watergate.

In other testimony, Hunt said:

—Liddy had asked him in January, 1972, "to help him prepare a budget for certain projects" by Mitchell, Dean and Magruder.

—Liddy's original $1 million budget, which in part called for electronic surveillance of airplanes used by Democratic candidates, was turned down because it was too high.

Toll in 2 market robberies; one hurt, one held

One grocery clerk was injured in a Pomona market robbery and a suspect in a second holdup was arrested Sunday.

The injured clerk, Jim E. Martinez, 19, Upland, was slugged on the head with a steel bar by one of two young men who entered the Stop 'n' Go Market at 1175 E. Philadelphia St., shortly after 3 a.m. While he was down, the pair looted the cash register.

Martinez was treated later for a cut scalp at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Both of the men were described as Negroes 19 to 20. One was 5-feet-8, slender and wore a green shirt and dark trousers. The other was the same height but was husky. He wore an orange prison shirt and dark trousers.

The arrest occurred after the holdup of the 7-11 Market at 2250 S. Gateway Ave. Sunday night. Victim Richard Ferreri, 23, Pomona, told police a man held a knife to his throat before fleeing with cash and two cartons of cigarettes.

Police later arrested a young Compton man, Rene Alden, 20, on suspicion of the robbery. They reported finding a car similar to the one used in the robbery parked in the 1900 block of S. Park Avenue and Alder inside a residence there. Inside the car they found two cartons of cigarettes and two knives.

Arson suspected in $10,300 fire at beer bar

Pomona firemen are investigating the possibility of arson in a fire early Sunday morning that caused $10,300 damage to a beer bar and pool hall at 909 W. Ganesha Blvd.

Two engine companies, a truck unit and a rescue unit were dispatched to the fire at 4:40 a.m. The fire was under control within 20 minutes and firemen spent another three hours in clean-up and extinguishing all embers.

Battalion Chief Paul Murphy called arson investigators to the scene after the firemen discovered that indicated possible arson. He would not specify the nature of the arson evidence. There was also evidence of malicious damage to pool tables and business equipment before the fire began.

There was an estimated $10,300 damage to contents and about $300 structural damage.

Flames destroy bait company building, contents

A fire, possibly starting in a stack of peat moss, raced through a large wood and metal storage building at North American Bait Farms, Inc., at 1297 S. Palmiro Ave. in Ontario early Sunday morning, causing an estimated $25,000 damage to its contents and $10,000 to its structure.

Ontario fire companies were called to the scene of the fire about 5:20 a.m. by a resident on Cypress Street who saw flames leaping from the building. Firemen on arrival reported that the roof of the building was engulfed in flames fueled by stacks of peat moss, walnut flour, and other worm food products. The fire was brought under control within 20 minutes but not before most of the 25 by 65-foot building had been destroyed. Also destroyed in the blaze, was a pickup truck and expensive laboratory equipment.

John Burke, manager of the bait company that raises worms for sporting goods store and recreation parks, told fire inspectors that several of the employees had left work hurriedly Saturday night and had left a floodlight on over the peat moss stacked almost to the ceiling.

Inspectors said that the fire may have been caused by the heat of the flood light on the peat moss. Contributing to the fire were bags of highly flammable walnut flour used to feed worms.

Hit-run accident sends 3 to hospital

Three persons were taken to San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland early Sunday after a car struck their auto on the San Bernardino Freeway west of Archibald Avenue in Ontario.

California Highway Patrol officers were searching for a green 1968 Oldsmobile after the collision at 1:53 a.m. Patrick Derrah, 20, of Albany, Ore., driver of one car, David Nyle, 22, of Ojai and Jeri McLaren, 18, of Ojai all suffered minor injuries after the car was struck from the rear by the other driver, who fled the scene.

Man shot during pistol argument

A 65-year-old Ontario man is listed in critical condition at an Ontario hospital after being shot during an altercation with his son at 131 W. Granada Court Sunday night, according to Ontario police.

Edward Charles Brown Sr. of the Granada Court address was admitted to Ontario Community Hospital with a gunshot wound of the stomach shortly after the incident occurred about 10 p.m. Brown was listed in "critical but improving" condition.

Police arrested Brown's 45-year-old son, Edward Charles Brown Jr., of the same address on suspicion of attempted murder who was booked in the West End Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail.

Police said that the neighbors reported a disturbance in front of the residence after they heard someone yelling for help in a driveway. When police arrived they found Brown, bleeding profusely from the stomach, and his son sitting on their living room couch.

After the elder Brown was taken to the hospital, police said the younger Brown would say nothing about the incident. Just prior to surgery the elder Brown told officers that he and his son had been arguing over the .45-caliber pistol his son recently purchased. Brown said his son wanted him to hold the new pistol and he had refused. This led to an argument, and the elder Brown told officers, the gun went off, "Bingo."

Police reported that earlier in the evening several officers went to the Brown residence to investigate a report of shooting in the area. Officers talked to the Browns and learned that the younger Brown had gone outside of the residence and fired several shots from the back porch. The Browns were warned and the officers left.

Laborer stabbed after crap game

A 31-year-old laborer was booked in the West End Jail this morning after allegedly slashing another man with a knife during an argument over a $2 bet in a crap game at the San Gabriel Valley Labor Association Camp at 8706 Turner Ave. in Cucamonga Saturday.

"O. C." Brown was arrested Saturday morning on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon by deputies investigating the incident. Deputies said that Brown had allegedly got into an argument over the money with Timothy David Fulton, 26, also a laborer. The argument ended with Brown slashing out at Fulton with the curved knife, deputies said.

Fulton was cut on the head, arms and thumb. He was treated and released from San Antonio Community Hospital.

Report on new program coming to school board

The Bonita school board will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the education center. The board will hear a report on the state-funded Early Childhood Education program at Royden Elementary School. While the program is a statewide one that will eventually include all elementary schools, only a few selected schools are now in the program which reduces pupil-teacher ratios. This is Royden's first year of participation.

A report will be made on the progress of the phase two building project at Lone Hill School and a progress report will be made by the Citizens' Committee in Support of Proposition T.

25,000 homeless in wake of typhoon

MANILA (UPI) — Typhoon Elaine, the most powerful storm to hit the Philippines this season, roared into the South China Sea today after mauling the northern Luzon farmlands with peak winds of 115 miles an hour.

A 12-year-old girl was injured in Manila when strong winds snapped a high-tension electric wire that fell on her.

Elaine uprooted trees and crops, blew down houses and government buildings, knocked down communications and power lines and washed away bridges on its path through rural Luzon.

The Red Cross said first reports showed at least 25,000 persons were homeless in the tobacco-producing province of Ilocos Sur, about 180 miles north of Manila.

Woman shot in face; husband is arrested

A Pomona man shot his wife in the face during a quarrel Sunday morning, but she escaped serious injury, police reported.

The victim, Anna J. Foster, 26, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was treated for the wound in her left cheek and later released. The bullet, from a .32-caliber revolver, was not removed but was not lodged in a dangerous area, officers said. It wound up at the base of Mrs. Foster's neck.

Police later arrested Willie Lee Foster, 34, when he arrived at the station to turn himself in. He was booked on suspicion of attempted murder.

The shooting occurred in the couple's home at 2165 S. Powers St. shortly after 2 a.m. Foster fired one shot in the face, causing his guests to leave hurriedly, and later shot Mrs. Foster as she sat on the bed in their room, officers reported.

They quoted Foster, a custodian at the Claremont Colleges, as saying it was an accident, and that he didn't know the gun was loaded. Mrs. Foster also said she thought it was an accident.

Plane believed crashed in S. Gabriel mountains

Sheriff's mountaineers began searching the rugged foothills in the East Fork of San Gabriel Canyon at day-break this morning, looking for a small airplane believed to have crashed there Sunday afternoon.

Eleven members of the San Dimas sheriff's mountain rescue team began their search in Cattle Canyon north of Glendora. A helicopter crew was standing by, awaiting a break in the weather, to help the ground party.

The search was the result of a report by a U.S. Forest Service helicopter pilot that he saw a light plane, possibly a Cessna, flying quite low in the area. He said he also heard what he thought was the sound of it crashing.

The area was hidden in fog later, preventing a search.

Deputies took a receiver, designed to pick up the distress signals of downed aircraft into the area but reported it has not picked up any signals. Meanwhile, authorities were attempting to learn if any light aircraft were missing.

HAIR-RAISING EXPERIENCE

This was the scene that greeted customers at Georgette's Beauty Shop at Daly City Saturday. The shop's 35 beauticians wore Halloween costumes instead of their regular uniforms. At the end of the day, the operator who received the most votes for the best costume also received a $25 prize.

Plumbers bugged Mary Jo's friends

More on Chappaquidick

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says there was no discussion of the political implications the night of the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in a car accident on Chappaquidick Island.

In the second installment of an interview with the Boston Globe, which appeared today, Kennedy elaborated on the details of the accident and subsequent developments.

Kennedy also said that the White House "plumbers" leaped into the case after Mary Jo Kopechne drowned and bugged telephones of her friends in an effort to obtain politically sensitive information to be used against Kennedy.

In Sunday's installment Kennedy said a judicial ruling in 1969 that negligent driving was the probable cause of the death was "erroneous and mistaken."

He denied that the party he and Miss Kopechne attended earlier was a "married man's night out," or that he had asked his cousin, Joseph Gargan, to take responsibility for the accident.

Kennedy also denied that he and Miss Kopechne were under the influence of alcohol or that he intended to drive to a beach instead of a ferry to Edgartown.

Kennedy attributed his failure to report the accident immediately to the fact that he almost drowned a second time during the night when he swam across a 500-foot channel between the island and Edgartown, where he was staying.

"By the time I arrived on the other shore I was absolutely spent. Absolutely exhausted. And just saying 'I just can't do it' (report the accident), I just can't do it," the Globe quoted him as saying.

Meanwhile, Kennedy said the Nixon "plumbers" wiretapped and kept under surveillance the women who attended the party on Chappaquidick Island that preceded the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

"They have been in plots to entrap them by the plumbers," Kennedy, D-Mass., said in an exclusive interview today in the Boston Globe.

The "plumbers" were a group assigned to carry out various domestic undercover operations for the White House when Richard M. Nixon was President.

"I can give you clips of the whole stories in New York City," Kennedy said. "(E. Howard) Hunt and others were involved. They have lost job opportunities which I am directly aware of."

Hunt was a member of the plumbers team.

Veterans' Day--another view

Disabled vets forgotten Americans

By United Press International
Though today is Veterans' Day, many veterans think they are the forgotten Americans.

Disabled veterans from World War II, Korea and Vietnam seem to share the view that the people who observe Veterans Day are veterans, their families, their widows and their orphans.

"To some people, we're just not human, and it seems we're just being forgotten about," said Major Webster as he twisted his body around on the surgical cart where he lay and shook his head.

"Webster was on patrol in Vietnam when a sniper's bullet ripped into his side and struck his spine. For seven years, he has been a patient at Hines Veterans' Administration Hospital in Chicago, a paraplegic, unable to sit or stand.

"One vet helps another, but otherwise, it's a dog-eat-dog world," he said. "Everybody else is out for himself. They want to go to work from 9 to 5 and forget about us. If a vet needs help, they don't want to be bothered."

"If I have to live like this, then I have to live like this. I know there's a reason, a plan, though I don't know just now what it is, and I may never know, but I know there is," he said.

"I just wish the Veterans Day that people would please try to realize that wounded vets are people, too."

"Their physical capabilities are limited, they may need a little help along the way, but they just want to be people. Just don't pass them by as just another cripple."

"Outside of the veterans' organizations, nobody much gives a damn — not even Congress," said James Wainright, a World War II veteran from Goldsboro, N.C., who collects 30 per cent disability.

Leu Belledeaux, another disabled World War II vet from Lake Charles, La., said that forgetting the veteran was just part of the nation's transition from war time to peace time.

"People just start thinking about other things," he said. "There's a pattern. I saw it after the Second World War, after Korea, after Vietnam. People just want to forget, to go back to everyday life."

"We never had servants at home and I didn't know how to deal with servants," she said, noting she has a 10-member staff at the residence. "I didn't know whether they were my friends...I certainly wasn't going to order them around...I wanted to serve them instead of them serving me...and it was very frightening."

S. Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — Opponents and supporters of President Nguyen Van Thieu today began a week of political confrontation over the fate of his troubled government.

Saigon police, reacting to rumors of planned demonstrations, cordoned off the center of the city this morning in case of trouble on downtown streets.

Anti-Thieu groups announced plans to sponsor street demonstrations all week with the protests climaxing on Friday, South Vietnam's National Day.

A group of 11 Americans, including five former prisoners of war, arrived in Saigon for a week-long visit on the eve of the expected intense political activity.

The government admitted inviting the Americans in an attempt to win support for Thieu, but the former POWs vowed to keep out of local politics while in South Vietnam.

Douglas Ramsey, a Viet Cong captive for seven years, said the group of POWs and veterans would try to get through the "horror's nest" by staying neutral in the political dispute.

People in today's news

Susan Hayward

ATLANTA (UPI) — Actress Susan Hayward, 55, left Emory University Hospital Sunday after a three-week confinement. Her physician said she had shown "considerable improvement in her general condition as a result of treatment."

Dr. George Tindall, a neurosurgeon, described Miss Hayward as "quite ill" after she was edging toward recovery. The actress spent several days in the hospital in July and Tindall performed a brain biopsy at the time but refused to disclose the results of the test. She was also hospitalized in April, 1973, for an undisclosed illness.

Miss Hayward won the Academy Award in 1939 for best actress for her role in "I Want to Live."

Bean & Conrad

SYDNEY (UPI) — Alan Bean and

Charles Conrad will get two of the highest awards offered by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale for their Skylab space missions.

Hayward Conrad

Conrad, who commanded the first Skylab mission in May and June, 1973, will receive the gold space medal.

Bean, who was in charge of the record 59-day Skylab II mission from July to September, 1973, will receive the Yuri Gagarin gold medal, named for the Russian astronaut who was the first man in space.

Nixon's financial woes

Another cross to bear (not Blue Cross)

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Nixon's hospitalization is another blow to his battered finances, Nixon has no health insurance.

"All hospital costs come out of his own pocket. Someone neglected to take out insurance," former White House Press Secretary Ron Ziegler said Sunday.

Nixon spent 11 days in Long Beach Memorial Hospital before he was discharged Oct. 4.

He was hospitalized last Wednesday, and doctors say that under the best conditions he will not be released until the end of this week. If surgery is needed—as appears increasingly likely—the stay could run to weeks.

Nixon's financial advisers have already indicated that his money problems are almost certain to force him to sell one of his homes, probably the estate at Key Biscayne, Fla.

Nixon appeared certain to have a bill here for at least 20 days of hospitalization, plus the fees of a battery of medical specialists.

Communist or hippie document

Declaration of Independence unrecognized

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Thirty-five students in a Springville High School government class recently circulated a "petition" on downtown streets to measure public reaction to the document.

The "petition" was really a copy of the Declaration of Independence. The students asked approximately 700 persons to read the document. Only 308 agreed to read it and only 92 recognized it as the Declaration of Independence.

Some thought it was a radical paper written by a communist or a hippie group, and one man said the Central Intelligence Agency should throw the students' teacher, Wayne Nobles, in jail for circulating such literature. One man said he hoped "whoever wrote this is not running for political office. If he is, and gets elected, the country will be in the same shape it is now."

Women Episcopal priests

Defy House of Bishops, conduct services

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three women deacons who were ordained as priests in a controversial ceremony last July celebrated the Holy Eucharist for the first time Sunday night, at Riverside Church.

A congregation of about 1,500 men and women burst into applause as the three walked down the aisle to the altar of the interdenominational church.

They had agreed after they and eight other women were ordained not to function as priests "for a time," but Sunday said the agreement was broken when the House of Bishops failed at a meeting last week to permit them to act as priests.

Asked if the service helped her realize her goal, the Rev. Jeannette Piccard, 78, of Minneapolis, responded: "This is the goal."

The Rev. Allison Cheek, 47, Annan-dale, Va., said the church's opposition to women priests "is a primordial fear of women's sexuality on the part of the male leadership in the church. My own congregation, however, has been very supportive."

"I spoke to them before I went to Philadelphia and they were very much with me. I would have been ordained years ago if I could have been but I had to wait until now before there were four bishops willing to do it."

Major banks lower prime interest

By United Press International
Major U.S. banks today trimmed their prime interest rates to stimulate sagging business activity.

Following the lead of the First National City Bank of New York, which cut its rate from 11½ per cent to 11 per cent Friday, several banks across the nation reduced their rates by one-quarter percentage point today.

The First National Bank of Chicago cut its prime to 11 per cent from 11½. The decrease marked the fourth consecutive week a .25 per cent reduction has been made by the bank.

Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, the nation's third largest, cut its prime from 11½ to 11¼, effective in m m e-diately. Also lowering the prime to 11¼ were National Bank of Detroit, Central National Bank of Cleveland and Marine Midland Bank of New York, Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh and Mercantile Trust Co. of St. Louis.

The prime rate is the interest banks charge their best corporate customers and the base from which all other rates are scaled upwards.

Rocky's elderly in-law

Allows young fiance girlfriends own age

ST. PETERSBURG, England (UPI) — Michael Wilson, 29-year-old fiance of American millionaire Rachel Fitter, says he has an agreement to marry for company, not sex.

He says the 75-year-old Villanova, Pa., rope heiress, who hired him as a chauffeur 10 months ago, also agreed to let him have girlfriends his own age after marrying.

"We're getting married for companionship and nothing else," Wilson said Sunday. "We have this agreement. There is to be no physical contact."

"Even after I'm married I'll still be able to have girlfriends of my own age," he said. "We've agreed about this and there won't be any problems."

His fiancée is an aunt of Mrs. Happy Rockefeller, the wife of vice president-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The Philadelphia Bulletin, in a copyrighted story Sunday, said documents belonging to a late friend revealed Miss Fitter intended last year to marry another employee, a 37-year-old Hungarian chauffeur.

$4.3 million loot still missing

Seize guard in biggest burglary

CHICAGO (UPI) — A security guard believed to be the "insider" who helped pull off the biggest cash heist in American history—a $4.3 million theft from an Armored Express Co. vault—was arrested Sunday by police and FBI agents.

Ralph Marrera, 31, was seized before dawn at his father-in-law's suburban Oak Park home, where he apparently had been hiding since becoming a suspect in last week's burglary.

Still sought in a nationwide federal alert was Charles Marzano, 42, whom police described as an adept safe-cracker and an expert at circumventing sensitive security alarm systems. Marzano was believed to have fled Chicago.

Both Marrera and Marzano were questioned last night in connection with an $800,000 jewelry heist from a firm in suburban Evanston for which Marrera also worked as a security guard.

He was to appear before a U.S. magistrate today, but authorities refused to disclose where he was being held pending his court appearance.

Federal marshals took elaborate security measures to protect Marrera from underworld figures who might try to take his life.

Marrera was described by U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson as a key to the theft.

There were reports that Marrera—hired by Armored Express two months before the burglary—had gone into hiding for fear attempts would be made on his life and planned to surrender to police.

Thompson said Marrera knows enough about the burglary that the thieves still being sought would try to kill him and other underworld elements would go after him.

Upon his arrest, Marrera reportedly told police, "There's a lot of guys out to kill me. Are you guys out to kill me, too?"

Injured nurse dies; man held

FONTANA (UPI) — Robert Anderson, 18, Fontana, was booked on suspicion of murder following the death Sunday of a nurse who was injured last Oct. 16.

According to police, Anderson told authorities that Ann Chaka, 41, a nurse in a convalescent hospital, was injured when she jumped out of his car on a rural road near here.

Police said, however, that the woman suffered only a single head wound, instead of multiple injuries that usually accompany a fall from a moving car.

Missing vet's body found

LONG BEACH (UPI) — Hunters Sunday discovered the body of a man missing from the Veterans Administration Hospital here since Aug. 2, deputies said.

A coroner's office spokesman said Sheldon H. Bury, 61, left the hospital without permission and was probably attempting to hitchhike home. His body was discovered about 10 miles from his home at Alberhill near Lake Elsinore.

Cause of death was believed to be heat exposure.

Obstacles facing coal's comeback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soaring oil prices and rising energy needs have opened the way for the comeback of coal, but there are major hurdles between the coalface and industry's furnaces.

The administration for the first time in years has adopted the official policy of encouraging the use of coal to cut down inflation-fueling oil import costs.

Standing in the way are a series of severe problems in the industry, ranging from shortages of manpower and materials to environmental questions, and affecting every stage of operations—mining, transportation and final use of coal.

If you can mine coal, you may not be able to move it. If you can deliver it, you may not be able to burn it.

FIRST in a SERIES

On top of these problems is the possibility of a strike Nov. 12, when the miners' contract expires.

It takes manpower and equipment to mine coal and both are short if projections of increased production requirements prove true. Dr. Thomas V. Falkie, director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, said it may take 300,000 more miners to dig the coal sought by 1985. There are about 120,000 miners in the United Mine Workers of America today, but no manpower training program.

The pick and shovel days have yielded to fancy equipment. That means steel: steel for huge stripping shovels and continuous mining machines, steel for shuttle cars and track to move coal from the mine to the railroads. Steel supplies are tight with the steel industry operating at maximum capacity.

Investment is a problem. According to the National Petroleum Council, coal production and transportation will require between $15.4 and $20.3 billion of investment through 1985.

Railroads used to depend on coal. Now, to a large extent, coal depends on railroads, many of them in financial trouble. "To us the rails are a logical extension of the coal production process," says Carl E. Bagge, president of the National Coal Association. "Any breakdown or inadequacy in any part of the system sends shock waves through the entire system."

About 420 million tons of coal are expected to move by rail this year.

If strip mining for coal in the West comes to pass, demands on rails will be tremendous. Existing lines may not lie along mines-to-market routes.

The National Academy of Engineering estimates that to realize 12 billion tons of coal production there would be a requirement for 8,000 new locomotives and 150,000 gondola and hopper cars.

In the meantime, existing cars are probably under-used, according to Transportation Undersecretary John W. Barnum. "Rail hopper cars can be loaded rapidly, but once en route the average time between loads is 14 days, and trains move over some lines today at only 10 miles an hour," he said.

According to the Federal Energy Administration, the average coal haul is only 295 miles.

Still another hurdle for the advocates of more coal use are the environmentalists.

John R. Quarles Jr., deputy administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, declared EPA on the side of increased use of coal.

"The nation needs more coal. Much of it will have to be strip mined. This cannot be avoided," he said.

But he also expresses concern about the costs to the environment. "The Department of the Interior has estimated that two-thirds of the land disturbed by strip mining has never been reclaimed. This represents almost 2 million acres of land, much of it in the Appalachian region," he said.

"Already over 3 million acres of land have been torn up by strip mining, an area larger than the state of Delaware. Almost one million tons of acid are discharged each year into the streams and rivers of the Appalachian region as a direct result of mining operations. This has polluted over 10,000 miles of streams in Appalachia."

Besides the damage from acid there is erosion and once coal is burned, there is air pollution.

SHARP SHOOTING — The targets at the Foothill Shooting Range at Lincoln, Calif., may look like this when 350 law enforcement officers from 30 agencies take part in the 2nd annual police combat pistol matches, sponsored by the club.

Ford gives recycling a boost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite all the can collecting and newspaper stacking being done in households across the country, recycling at the consumer level still isn't having much impact.

But the recycling industry, the big boys who turn scrap into re-usable material on a big scale, hopes President Ford's recent plugs for recycling will turn that around and make it worthwhile for everybody.

Ford, in his anti-inflation message, endorsed recycling as a concept and said it might be possible to lick inflation with the contents of the nation's trash cans.

The National Association of Recycling Industries Inc., which represents 700 recycling firms, says its "first time in recent memory that a president has recognized and underscored the importance of expanding the recycling effort of the country."

M. J. Mighdoll, executive vice president of the association, believes Ford's goals can be brought nearer to realization by the passage of two measures now before in Congress.

One would give companies a 7 per cent tax incentive for using recycled materials. The other would direct the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate and correct cases where shippers charge higher rates for transporting recycled materials than they do for virgin substances.

The Supreme Court recently announced that it would hear a case later this term involving the virgin versus recycled materials issue in freight rates.

According to Mighdoll it will take a major shift in government policy to create a market for consumer-level recycling. As it is now, he says, most post-industrial scrap is being successfully recycled. About one in every four newspapers is recycled, and about one of every six aluminum cans.

To make more recycling economically feasible, according to Mighdoll, the government will have to switch to a policy of buying recycled goods itself and of actively encouraging private industry to do the same.

In its public statement Mighdoll's association said nothing about another energy-saving anti-inflation approach, banning returnable cans and bottles completely. He said that would be "negative or punitive" and would add to consumer costs. It would also, of course, butt into the recycling industry's business.

Legislation that would impose a nationwide five-cent deposit on all cans and bottles, thereby encouraging their return, and that would outlaw the flip-top can is now dormant in Congress.

"FOOT-DROPPED" HINT REQUIRES QUICK STEP

By DR. W. P. HELZER, D.C.

Your legs and feet propel you through life and without their use, it's obvious you're not going to get far.

What is meant by the term "foot drop?"

"Foot drop" is sort of a medical slang used to describe the condition a person experiences when he or she doesn't feel secure in his steps.

Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

People can actually lose confidence in their legs and feet. And it's a very real and urgent problem. You can only imagine the concern of an individual who depends on the constant, daily use of the legs, such as a housewife or a workingman.

You've read, I'm sure, of the great lengths people will go to avoid amputation of a leg or foot. When one loses the function of one or the other, the consequences are as serious, if not more.

The leg and foot problems we are discussing here are generally related to degenerative diseases. And don't let that word "degenerative" mislead you. These are not only problems of the elderly. As a matter of fact, they usually start cropping up in the late 20's and early 30's, especially among women.

The symptoms of lower back disc degeneration are casual at first: numbness in the legs, tingling sensations, a limb that's quick to "go to sleep."

Then the problem begins to more seriously manifest itself. There are shooting pains in the legs, coldness of the legs or feet and lack of feeling.

Often, when a person starts to have this type of trouble he seeks drug therapy. But this can assure only relief in the beginning. The degeneration continues until finally the patient can't find relief in drugs.

This is hardly an answer to the problem.

Those symptoms — numbness, pain, tingling, etc. — should be an immediate call for accurate diagnosis and effective treatment.

We have tests that can readily show if the circulatory or nervous systems are impaired. Leg and foot problems should be investigated immediately. By its very name and nature, degenerative problems relate to time.

One of the most disheartening experiences in the world is to examine a wheelchair confined person only to find that drugs have so affected the disc tissue that the pain is no longer controlled.

Resistance is large factor with fungus

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Fred Freebie was given to me because he has a fungus on his shell. He seems active enough, and he's eating. Can I put him in my bigger tank with Sunny? She's a very healthy turtle so she wouldn't catch the fungus anyway, would she —D.S.

Dear D.S.: Sunny would be less susceptible to the fungus than she would be if less healthy. Resistance, or lack of it, is an important factor in shell fungus and many other chelonian conditions. Because fungi are potentially transmissible, however, why risk it.

Speaking of risks, Fred Freebie could be exposed to some himself, if Sunny's disposition changed to stormy on his arrival. You've no assurance she wouldn't chomp on this undersized house guest.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When your dog suddenly holds his head to one side you'd think he was thinking about something, wouldn't you? But when he keeps doing it, what is he doing —M.B.

Dear M.B.: He may be trying to relieve pain or pressure in the ear canal. Holding the head to one side and shaking the head or possibly scratching gently often indicates a foreign body such as a foxtail deep within the ear. Other causes range from a sore neck to brain inflammation. Since the dog is hurting, not "thinking", this behavior should call for immediate help — from his doctor, of course.

DEAR DR. MILLER: First I thought Shady was drooling because she was hungry, but now she's eating less than she used to, and drooling more, she feels fine, but it looks pretty messy. Why do horses do this —B.E.

Dear B.E.: Horses drool for many reasons, up to and including some deadly viral diseases. However, your description more likely points to a localized condition within the mouth. Uneven wear of the teeth with resulting sharp edges which may cut into surrounding tissue can certainly cause a sore mouth and consequent drooling and loss of appetite. This time of year, grass awns (foxtails) and other dry grass seeds, can become lodged in the gums or cheeks, causing severe irritation, ulceration and infection. At least we know that Shady's drooling indicates a problem, not food anticipation. Whether the cure is filling the teeth and related corrective dental work, treating foreign bodies or infection, or whatever, the treatment is past due.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Ernie Pyle was an American journalist who became one of the best-known correspondents during World War II. The World Almanac recalls that his writing emphasized the fear and loneliness of the enlisted man, creating a necessary link between the combatant and the homefront. Pyle covered many major campaigns before he was killed in enemy action in April, 1945.

that South jumped to four spades after his partner merely raised to two. He counts his own three winners and sees that the way to beat the hand is for West to produce a trick. If it is in trumps it will score surely. If it is the king of clubs it will probably be sure; if it is the jack some special defensive measures may be necessary."

Oswald: "The How can I beat this hand is now developed. East takes a second heart and forces dummy to ruff a third one. That ruff in dummy would always be there. East just forced South to take it early."

Jim: "The final nail is put in South's coffin if East ducks the first diamond; notes that his partner has followed with the deuce to show three diamonds and takes the second one to shut out the rest of dummy's diamond suit."

Going your way. Again.

The recent strike against RTD is the kind of bus stop we try to avoid. And we regret the inconvenience it caused you. But now that we're rolling, we look forward to serving you again.

It's been so long since we've gone anywhere, maybe you've forgotten just what we offer in the way of transportation. Or maybe you've never been a rider before but you'd like to start saving a lot of money and hassle.

So here's some useful information on RTD:

How to find a bus.

Obviously the first thing you do is head for one of our bus stop signs. There are more than 20,000 of them throughout the Southland. If you're not sure where your bus stops or how to get where you want to go, send for a free Rider's Kit using the coupon in this ad.

A 25¢ fare, everywhere.

Since the second thing you do is pay, you should know that all rides are a flat 25¢ within Los Angeles and Riverside Counties. No matter how far you ride. Transfers, if needed, are 10¢.

If you're a student with an I.D. card, the fare drops to 15¢. And if you've been out of school long enough to become a senior citizen, it's only 10¢ a ride.

That's a bargain, we know. But you can do even better with a monthly pass. For $10 a month it'll get you all the rides you want, seven days a week. ($12 in Riverside, Orange and San Bernardino Counties.) For senior citizens passes are only $4 a month. And the blind ride free.

Park 'n' Ride.

If you work downtown, one of our seven new Park 'n' Ride lots might be the way to go. They serve La Mirada, Van Nuys, Burbank, San Gabriel, Studio City, South Central Los Angeles, El Monte. (Watch for other new openings.)

You just drive to the nearest one. leave your car under the watchful eye of a security guard, board a waiting bus, then relax to town and back non-stop. You'll make the same time you could if you drove, but you'll spend less. A total of $12 a month or 75¢ by the day. That's cheaper than most parking fees alone.

El Monte Busway.

If you live in El Monte or in the San Gabriel Valley, you might want to join the 11,000 commuters a day who fly to town and back on the El Monte Busway. Riding its exclusive bus lanes saves them 20 minutes each way and a good deal of money in the bargain.

Subscription bus service.

We now have 18 subscription buses running, each carrying employees of a company from near where they live to right where they work. Non-stop. If you and 40 others would like to commute this way, in air-conditioned comfort and in your own reserved seats, ask your employer to call us.

Freeway Flyers.

Wherever possible, we route our buses so they can take advantage of freeway speeds. Many routes even have their very own on- and off-ramps.

And in May we opened the first exclusive bus lane on a surface street to hurry buses through heavy traffic.

We hope you'll be seeing more of these soon.

More buses, more routes.

Since the first of the year we've added 22 new bus routes covering 600 more miles of streets, and more are coming soon.

Now you can probably ride a bus that stops closer to your home than it used to. And have a shorter wait.

Free advice.

For a free Rider's Kit, complete with an RTD system map and other information, just use the coupon below or call (213) 747-4455. Our telephone operators will give you specific information on how to get from wherever you are to wherever you're going—routes, schedules and transfers—they know it all. We're happy to be going your way. Again.

Burglars kill talking parrot

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Three young Jackson youths, fearing a pet parrot would tell on them, killed the bird during a burglary, police said today.

Sgt. Johnny L. Dickson said the youths told investigators that while burglarizing a house they heard a noise and discovered the parrot talking. One of the three called the name of another aloud. Fearing the parrot may repeat the youth's name, they killed it.

Dickson said the arrest of the boys, one 12 and the other two 15-years-old, cleared up 12 burglaries in the area. He said officers recovered several television sets, some jewelry, several guns and eight-track tapes all stolen from area homes.

Another stabbed at San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN (UPI) — A San Quentin Prison inmate was in fair condition today after he was stabbed en route to his cell from the evening meal.

Billy Harris, 28, was knifed twice in the neck with a 14-inch sharpened file in the south block, a prison spokesman said.

Guards apprehended the suspected assailant and four other inmates who were fighting at the stabbing scene. The unidentified men were believed to have been staging the fight to mask the stabbing, the spokesman said.

The victim is serving a sentence of three years to life for assault with a deadly weapon and perjury in Santa Clara County.

It was the second stabbing at San Quentin in less than a week.

Church Women United mark Community Day

The Bonita Unit of Church Women United of Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas will celebrate World Community Day on Friday at the United Methodist Church, 3205 D St., La Verne.

Mrs. A. E. Stoddard is in charge of the 10 a.m. program which follows a coffee hour at 9:30 a.m.

Women from all churches are invited to participate in the service which has as its theme "Discover the Aspiring tains and in New York and South Carolina. Dr. Sommerville also holds a graduate degree from the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

The soloist will be Dorothy Hall, accompanied by Fanchon Binnall. Marjorie Smith will explain the Nov. 17 Walk for Hunger.

The World Community Day Offering will go to the Intercontinental Mission through which women have an opportunity to participate by encouraging other women in social and economic development programs in the Caribbean, Lebanon, Africa, United States and other areas.

Proceeds from the sale of Gift Certificates will be brought to the meeting. The certificates may be designated for disaster relief, rehabilitation projects, self-help projects and other areas.

Child care will be provided.

MARI SOMMERVILLE

Majority." Women are now a majority in the world and are bound together by common aspirations. These aspirations will be expressed by Chris Connelly, Ruth Fasnacht and Shirley Rude.

The United Nations passed a resolution designating 1975 as International Women's Year and the United States was the first country to issue a national proclamation.

World Community Day has been observed annually since 1943 with a strong emphasis on peace in the world.

Mrs. Maude Scudder, vice president, will conduct a business session during which 1975 officers will be elected.

Dr. Mari Sommerville, a resident of Pilgrim Place in Claremont, will be the keynote speaker. She was born in Calcutta, India, and attended the Isabella Thoburn College in Lucknow. She later became administrator of that college and taught at Adams Girls School in the Himalya Mountain and in New York and South Carolina. Dr. Sommerville also holds a graduate degree from the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

The Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church of Pomona has scheduled its annual bazaar Saturday in the church social hall, 401 N. Gibbs St.

Doors will open at 10 a.m. for the sale of many items to attract holiday shoppers, including needlework, baked goods, Christmas decorations, novelty gifts, plants, dried floral arrangements and children's fun booth.

A luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The public is invited to browse and dine.

A ham loaf dinner will be served from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Mrs. Bea Rathbun and her committee are in charge of the luncheon and dinner. Mrs. Lynn Honaker is general chairman of the bazaar.

TODAY'S Women

MRS. LORENA COLE will present a slide lecture on Hopi and Navajo Indians for Ebell Club. The doll shown represents Hopi eagle dancer.

Program on Indians scheduled at Ebell

An illustrated color slide program will be presented for members and guests of Pomona Ebell on Friday afternoon by Mrs. Lorena Cole.

For several years, Mrs. Cole has visited Hopi friends on the Hopi reservation each summer. She has also been intimately acquainted with a Navajo family for a number of years.

From these personal contacts, as well as from reading and studying, Mrs. Cole has learned about the life styles and cultures of the two tribes.

She will exhibit and explain some of the artifacts of Navajos and Hopis.

Dr. Anna Shotwell, a member of the club and resident of San Antonio Gardens, will exhibit her paintings in the clubhouse parlors during November. She began painting in 1965, mostly in oils, and considers herself self taught since she has attended only a few classes. Her works have previously been shown in Pomona and Claremont.

Mmes. Kenneth F. Kirkpatrick, T.B. Stimmel, Claude Hungerford, Virginia Coffey and Roy G. Decker will welcome guests at the door.

Bergman and Cochran vows are exchanged

First Presbyterian Church in San Diego was the setting for the marriage of Miss Norma Louise Cochran of La Mesa and William G. Bergman III of San Diego.

The evening ceremony was read by the Rev. Robert H. Mayo.

The bride, daughter of W. Keith Cochran of Covina, chose a gown of ivory chiffon and rose-patterned lace fashioned with a high waist, long sleeves and a border of lace. The skirt extended into a long train. Her floor-length veil was attached to a lace cap and she carried a cascade of gardenias.

Mrs. Charles Alessi was the matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Gregg, Miss Jan Devonberg, Miss Donna Hagar, Mrs. Craig Morris and Miss Carolyn Jones.

Ken Herbenar was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Bergman Jr. of Claremont. Ushers were Greg Menne, Ken Kallet, Boyd Cochran, Joe Harrison and Randy Peskin.

A reception at the Cafe Del Rey Moro, Balboa Park, San Diego followed the wedding.

The couple honeymooned in northern California and will reside in San Diego.

Among the guests at the wedding were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Naffel, Claremont.

The bride graduated from San Diego State University in June and is employed by May Co., Mission Valley.

Mr. Bergman graduated from the University of San Diego Men's College in 1972 and is a manager at May Co., Mission Valley.

Hugh Colliers feted on 25th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh A. Collier of Pomona were honored on their 25th wedding anniversary at a reception hosted by their son and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Mosley Jr., Los Angeles.

Mrs. Collier is past worthy matron of Lone Star Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Denver, Colo.; past daughter ruler of Mountain Lodge, IBPO; national chapter coordinator of USAS Sorority, and president of Missionary Circle 1 of Zion Baptist Church in Denver.

She has served as financial secretary of Macedonia Baptist Church, Pomona, and church clerk and the First Baptist Church, Claremont.

Mrs. Collier was a career employee of the federal government and worked in Denver at a Norton Air Force Base in San Bernardino, before her retirement.

Mr. Collier is a past instructor of the Drum and Bugle Corps, Mountain Lodge and president of the Missionary Circle for Service Men and Women, Zion Baptist Church, Denver. He is employed as a first line supervisor for the Los Angeles County Building Services Division.

The couple belongs to First Baptist Church of Claremont. They have one grandson.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Child custody

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm in the process of divorcing my wife and I'm not writing this letter because I have any regrets about our separation. I'm concerned only because I plan to remarry some time within the next year and God knows, I don't want to make the same mistakes again. My wife is mentally and emotionally a child and it's unfortunate that we have two children. I'm quite certain that I will get custody of them because she's not equipped to care for them and she really doesn't want them.

She freely admits that she's sexually promiscuous and apparently no one man is ever going to satisfy her. I have great respect for my parents but she's totally hooked on hers. To her they are some kind of gods, especially her father, whom she idolizes. It's all too sick and I don't want my kids growing up in that atmosphere. Her parents are going to fight to get the children, but since she's already said she doesn't want them and both lawyers are well aware of her sexual proclivities, I don't think there will be a problem. F. T.

Dear F.T.: It used to be quite unusual for fathers to be awarded custody of children, but this is no longer so in many states. If the father is thought by the judge to be a better parent or if the mother doesn't want to accept the responsibility of her children, the father is usually given the children.

We are beginning to more aware that it is the quality of parenthood which is important and the old mystique of the natural mother automatically being the answer to a child's best welfare is disappearing.

Often, the sexually promiscuous person was never able to come to terms with leaving his or her parents. The woman who runs frantically from male to male, never finding what she's looking for, is probably trying to find an exact duplicate of her father. The sexually promiscuous man has probably never been able to break the deep emotional tie with his mother and has never passed into adulthood.

Many people, regardless of their actual chronological age, are never able to leave childhood or adolescence in relating to their parents. Dr. Martin Shepard suggests that those stuck in the childhood phase remain overly docile and dependent and those stuck in adolescence relate to their parents in perpetually rebellious, ill-tempered way.

You seem to have a mature relationship with your parents, seeing them as individuals you respect but are no longer dependent upon for your every need. Learning to accept one's parents as separate individuals seems to be very difficult for most people in our society. When one's relationship with parents isn't worked through in a healthy way, marriages often suffer. The divorce courts are full of adults who have never managed to settle their particular problems with their parents. Until these problems are solved these adults are apt to make very poor parents themselves.

If you do get the custody of your children, you can help them grow into adjusted adults by trying not to express to them any of the anger and hostility you feel toward their mother. Children need to love and respect both parents. This divorce will be difficult and traumatic for them, but you can minimize the damage by trying to instill in them a warm relationship with their mother. They need to feel that she loves them and that she is still worthy of their respect.

Remember, your children are part of her, and when you criticize her, you are, in their eyes, also criticizing them.

Orchestra, folk dancers to perform at Pomona

Orchestra Slavika 7-16, Balkan musical group, and the Ukrainian Spirit Folk Dancers will perform at Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 7.

Tickets are $1.75, students 75 cents. The program is sponsored by the college's Oldenburg Center.

Orchestra Slavika 7-15 is a new group that has won acclaim in its short existence. (The 7-16 is a Balkan music beat measure.) The group is led by Yordan Trenev, a native of Bulgaria. He is a trumpeter who has toured extensively in Europe, Canada and Mexico with the Yugoslav Dance Ensemble.

The Ukrainian Spirit Folk Dancers have performed at the Los Angeles Music Center and at major festivals of dance and ethnic music throughout the United States.

Czech-born Alena Nordlin, female vocalist of the group, has a varied repertoire in seven languages. She's a veteran of Czech television, and was a regular on a variety show in Helsinki, Finland.

Yani, the belly-dancer, has made appearances at Caesars Palace and the Flamingo Hotel, among others. She is currently appearing in the Persepolis Greek Restaurant in Los Angeles.

The ensemble will perform Russian, Czech, Bulgarian, Serbian, and Macedonian numbers. In addition, there will be numbers in Greek, Armenian and Yiddish. The program is fast moving and features authentic costumes.

Wife can fight back, but can't kill mate

KARLSRUHE, West Germany (UPI) — A wife being beaten by her husband may fight back, but has no right to kill him, the West German Supreme Court has ruled.

The court confirmed a sentence of 30 months imprisonment for a woman who stabbed her husband to death while defending herself against his attack.

PRINCESS OF CHINA — Danica Mastilovic will sing the title role in Puccini's "Turandot" in the Pavalion of the Los Angeles Music Center the evenings of Nov. 29 and Dec. 1 and the afternoon of Dec. 7. The presentation is by the New York City Opera and the Music Center Opera Association. Miss Mastilovic is a Yugoslavian soprano.

Colleges to offer cultural series

The Claremont Colleges will offer a varied musical series in Bridges Auditorium and Garrison Theater for the 1974-75 season.

The Los Angeles Philharmonic, Zubin Mehta conducting, will perform Nov. 13 and May 10.

Other programs are "Andre Watts, pianist, Nov. 22; Sherrill Milnes, baritone, March 15; and the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra, Neville Marriner, conducting, with soloist Barry Tuckwell, French horn, April 5.

James Fields, 1973 winner of the Leventritt Foundation Prize, will play two different piano recital programs on Feb. 20 and 22 at Garrison Theater.

Also scheduled is a new Young Concert Artist Series presenting outstanding, emerging professional talents: Michael Webster, clarinetist, Nov. 5; Nobuko Imai, violinist, Jan. 21; Emanuel Ax, pianist, March 4, and Ani Kavafian, violinist, April 29. These recitals will be given in Garrison Theater and are available either in series tickets or as single events.

Information for concert activities can be obtained from the auditorium and theater events office, phone 636-4523.

SIDNEY HARTH, concertmaster and associate conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic, will lead the orchestra in a concert entitled "Our American Heritage" at the Pavalion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 10 a.m. Nov. 9. The program will be made up of music by American composers.

Senegalese to perform at Pauley

The National Dance Company of Senegal will perform in Pauley Pavilion, UCLA, at 8 p.m. Nov. 10.

For the troupe's appearance the seating arrangement in Pauley Pavilion has been redesigned so that the stage area is immediately in front of, and just below, spectators. Viewers will be able to enjoy all the spectacle of the 40-member company, and at the same time be able to see the intimate details of the dancers' work.

This is the third American tour of the Senegalese company. The troupe includes singers, dancers, drummers, musicians, acrobats and stilt-walkers. It headlines what it calls "a living, dancing haystack."

In honor of its 15th anniversary, the troupe has prepared a new program that includes batteries of drummers from four regions of Senegal performing on the diakhanké, soce, wolof and the diola. Acrobats will perform on eight-foot stilts to the rhythms of tam-tam dances. This year's program also will feature a talking drum, the rare art form that still exists today in Africa.

Tennessee Ernie

Country-western music makes a hit in Russia

By GORDON F. JOSELOFF

MOSCOW (UPI) — Ernest Jennings Ford snapped his fingers in Moscow's Rossiya Concert Hall and a ripple of applause ran through the sell-out crowd of 2,500.

That was all it took for the Russian audience to recognize "16 Tons," the song that made Ford, better known as Tennessee Ernie, an international star in 1955.

He and Sandi Burnett, 23, an attractive brunette, headline a "Country Music U.S.A." troupe which just wound up a four-week tour of the Soviet Union.

Ford is pleased that Soviet audiences, generally unfamiliar with U.S. country music, do know his hit.

"It makes me feel kind of nice," he said in an interview. "It was released here a year or so after I recorded it. The people know it's a working man's song."

"16 Tons," "Release Me" and "Tie a Yellow Ribbon" are about the only songs in the specially created two-hour show that Soviet audiences seem to know. But this has not dampened their enthusiasm for the Nashville, Tenn., performers.

The show, in the Soviet Union under the Soviet-American cultural exchange agreement, has been the hottest ticket in town wherever it has appeared. The 27-performance tour began in Tbilisi, the Georgian capital, and went on to Yerevan, capital of Armenia, and Leningrad before coming to Moscow.

"Leningrad was our best audience," Ford said. "For some reason they really caught on."

Miss Burnett, whose rendition of "Stand By Your Man" has been a show-stopping favorite of the Soviets, was startled during one Leningrad performance by a soldier in full uniform. He walked to the foot of the stage and presented her with a bunch of roses.

"It was really something," said Dick Kuegeman, manager of the 31-member company from Nashville's Opryland, U.S.A. "Sandi kissed him and he snapped to attention and turned bright red."

During one Moscow performance, a matronly woman repeatedly walked to the foot of the stage distributing bouquets until everyone had received one.

The show's first half that evening brought a generally restrained response from Muscovites, most of them young to middle-aged with a handful of elderly. The program included blue grass and blues as well as a medley of railroad songs.

The second half opened with cowboy songs, bringing a bit more applause, and then moved on to contemporary country music. This broke the ice with some people toe-tapping and one middle-aged woman at the front waving her hand in time to the rhythm.

While singing "The Most Beautiful Girl," Ford leaned over the footlights, shaking hands, signing autographs and kissing girls. The crowd loved it. They demanded an encore of "16 Tons" with most in the audience joining Ford in finger-snapping. "Nyet, nyet," Ford said, shaking his head at those clapping instead of fingers-napping. The audience roared with laughter.

At the end, the company, all in their 20s and early 30s except for 55-year-old Ford, did an encore by singing "Midnight in Moscow" and "Kalinka," a popular Russian folk song.

Business world turns to TM to whip inflation

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maharishi Mahesh Yogi may not have businessmen exactly sitting at his feet but the Indian teacher has become something of the guru of the board room.

Maharishi is the founder of Transcendental Meditation, a kind of establishment high devotees claim sharpens the mind, heightens consciousness and soothes the body.

Once practiced mainly by young people, TM now numbers executives and professionals as the largest segment of more than 20,000 Americans who learn TM each month, according to the American Foundation for the Science of Creative Intelligence.

AFSCI, a nonprofit corporation based in Los Angeles, promotes TM for Maharishi among businessmen and professionals.

"Transcendental Meditation is a skill," explained Peter Muldavin, director of the New York AFSCI. "It's a skill of effortlessly minimizing mental activity so the body settles into a state of rest deeper than deep sleep while the mind becomes clear and alert."

The trick is to learn how to do it. Mystery shrouds the process. But for a price, TM has an army of teachers who'll show the way.

The going rate for an individual course is $125. But for corporations who want to give executives a more extensive course, the price is $800. The full course includes eight personal sessions and two days with a group at a hotel for "increased rest" and "further instruction."

"It's something that can't be learned out of a book, but must be taught by initiation," said Rick Polk, 54, chairman of an Elizabeth, N.J., electronic packaging firm.

Polk, who spent six months in Europe under the tutelage of Maharishi to qualify as a teacher, said the deep rest of TM is induced by a sound, and every individual has his own signal. TM teachers, Polk said, "are trained to pick a sound attuned to each individual's nervous system." Every nervous system is different and therefore every sound is different.

Polk and others claim "every nickel that is made is turned back to spreading TM in the world. We think the world needs it."

James E. Sinclair, 33, a Wall Street broker, began practicing TM nearly four years ago. "At first I was skeptical, but not anymore," he said. "The type of business I'm in is charged emotionally and it seems the rest TM provides one with is a great way to relieve the pressures of day-to-day activity."

"I haven't blown my top in over two years, my blood pressure is down to that of a man 20 years old, and I haven't had a headache for two years," Polk said.

Emily Quintanna, a TM teacher and publicist for the movement, said the advantages to business in working executives and teachers TM are higher productivity, greater efficiency, less absenteeism and greater personal satisfaction.

TM is sponsoring symposiums around the country to acquaint executives with the process. Sponsors say such top corporations as AT&T and Crocker National Bank in San Francisco "are now investigating the value of TM."

Polk, the New Jersey executive, is enthusiastic about the potential, though he may overstate the case. "TM," he avowed "is going to be the answer to inflation in the world."

Ford cancellation could hurt Tanaka image

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

Ever since the 1960 signing of the U.S.-Japanese security pact, Japan's anti-American, anti-nuclear and sometimes violent political left has used it as a focal point in attempts to unseat Japan's ruling Liberal-Democratic party and to disrupt U.S.-Japanese relations.

Three weeks of leftist riots preceding ratification of the pact by the Japanese Diet led to cancellation of a state visit to Japan by former President Dwight Eisenhower in June, 1960.

The government said it could not guarantee the president's safety.

An immediate result was the resignation of Japanese Premier Nobusuke Kishi and his replacement by Hayato Ikeda, a man credited with anti-inflation policies that had made possible Japan's post-war economic recovery.

The same forces that forced cancellation of the Eisenhower visit now threaten a goodwill visit scheduled for next month by President Ford.

On Oct. 21, leftist rallies to force cancellation of the Ford trip erupted throughout Japan with speakers denouncing abrogation of the security treaty and the closing of American military bases.

Also at issue were reports that American warships calling at Japanese ports regularly carried nuclear weapons. Testimony to that effect before a congressional committee by retired U.S. Adm. Gene Larocque has been greeted with denials by Premier Kakuei Tanaka and noncommittally by U.S. officials.

Although the projected Ford visit to Japan is not regarded by U.S. officials as one having any particular political or diplomatic significance, some comparisons to events of 1960 may be made.

Washington officials have warned that if Japanese demonstrations against the visit should continue and become more bitter, this visit also may be cancelled.

The decision to bow to Communist and Socialist pressures and to cancel the Eisenhower visit was regarded as a setback both to U.S. and the Kishi regime's prestige in Asia.

Such a decision also could be regarded as a setback for the Tanaka government which already is under heavy fire for its failure to control Japanese inflation currently running at a rate close to 25 per cent.

Japanese goods are finding themselves priced out of the market and the Japanese people are being warned of the possibility of a depression in 1975.

Elections last July showed a continuation of a decade-long decline in popularity of the Liberal-Democratic party which in turn threatens Tanaka's party leadership and thus his job as premier.

For troubles at home and for failure to provide strong leadership in foreign affairs commensurate with Japan's economic strength, Tanaka already is receiving full measure of blame from Japanese voters. This could come to a head in party elections next summer.

Ford's failure to appear in Tokyo on schedule could be the crowning blow to Tanaka's efforts to restore a tarnished image.

Foreign cars in state top economy list

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Federal figures show that among 1975 automobiles made for use in California, those manufactured abroad lead in fuel economy.

The Environmental Protection Agency and the Federal Energy Administration released a study recently that showed the Datsun B-210 used the least fuel, both in the city and on the road.

Figures for this state were released separately since California has stricter anti-pollution requirements than many other states.

Both the 10 top cars in city fuel economy and road fuel economy were foreign-built.

Copies of the report may be obtained at the EPA regional office, 100 California St., San Francisco 94111.

Topping the report, with city mileage per gallon first and then highway mileage, were:

Datsun B-210, 27-39; Volkswagen Rabbit, 24-38; Volkswagen Scirocco, 24-38; Mercedes-Benz 240D, 24-31; Mercedes-Benz 300D, 24-31; Volkswagen Dasher, 23-35;

Volkswagen Dasher wagon, 23-35; Volkswagen Thing, 23-34; Volkswagen Beetle, 23-34; Audi Fox, 22-33; Datsun 710, 21-29; Saab 99, 21-25; Toyota Corolla wagon, 20-28; Toyota Corolla, 20-28; Porsche 914, 20-28.

How to Pick Sleepers in Rare Plates

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one exceptional plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,050, and another selling at $15 in 1969 now sells for $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report telling what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 145-R Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request before November 9, 1974.

The hour or more you'd waste back and forth on the freeway to L.A. International Airport. But there's no need to go that route when you're right next door to Ontario International. One short block from the San Bernardino Freeway, this handy airport saves you even more time on baggage handling and check-in.

What's more, Continental can save you $10 to $15 or $8 to Portland, because we're the only airline with Economy Class out of Ontario. We also have the only advance seat selections. The only stereo and the only overhead storage. The only Irish Coffee breakfast service in First Class. And more flights than any other airline: a convenient total of three a day.

We know where you're going — and in the long run, it's just a short hop when you fly Continental from Ontario.

Neon sign will warn of robbery

NEW YORK (UPI) — What would the average New Yorker do if he saw an electric sign outside a bank flashing the warning "Robbery in Progress"?

That's what Chemical Bank hopes to find out.

Chembank recently unveiled its "Hold-up Alert — Local Transmission" (HALT), a new alarm system which utilizes an exterior flashing sign to alert passersby if a robbery is taking place.

A spokesman for the bank said the exterior signs, which will be used at the bank's branch offices, can be activated from various observation points in the bank.

Inside the bank, staff members also will be alerted by special devices if any teller station is being robbed, the spokesman said, and, as in the past, the alarm system will trigger the usual silent alarm network.

Man arrested over arsenal in his home

PACIFIC GROVE (UPI) — Treasury agents have confiscated antitank weapons, a submachinegun, destructive projectiles and ammunition at a private home.

Raymond Larone, 45, Pacific Grove, was charged recently with violating gun control laws. He was later released on his own recognizance after appearing before a U.S. magistrate.

Agents said they found in his home a 20mm antitank gun, a 55mm antitank weapon along with ammunition for it, a submachinegun, a mortar round, 60 M80 "firecrackers" and a 60m shell.

School board special election

Low key campaigning to pick up Wednesday

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

Unusually silent, almost underground campaigns being conducted by three candidates running for Pomona school board will go public five days before the election.

Candidates — two women and a man — will appear at a forum at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the board room of the Pomona Unified School District Education Center at 800 S. Garey Ave.

They are Dr. Mary Montes, Mrs. Frances Livingston and Gene Whitlock.

One of the three candidates will be selected by voters Nov. 5 to fill the unexpired term of Roy O. Day who resigned last June 10.

Mrs. Montes, on a 3-0 vote in July, was appointed by the school board to occupy the vacant seat. Her appointment was voided by Diamond Bar and Pomona citizens who claimed they objected to the appointment procedure and circulated petitions in sufficient strength to force the special election.

Mrs. Montes is director of multi-cultural education in the El Rancho Unified School District in Pico Rivera. She is a lifelong Pomona resident and a former teacher. She received her doctorate in educational administration this fall from the Claremont Graduate School.

Mrs. Livingston, a registered occupational therapist, has a history of volunteer community and school service. She was co-founder of the Neighborhood Schools Committee in 1971 which effectively worked against an integration plan for Pomona schools which involved busing. She has been elected to the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee for the 65th Assembly District.

Whitlock is a five year Pomona resident who owns a gift shop business in Los Angeles.

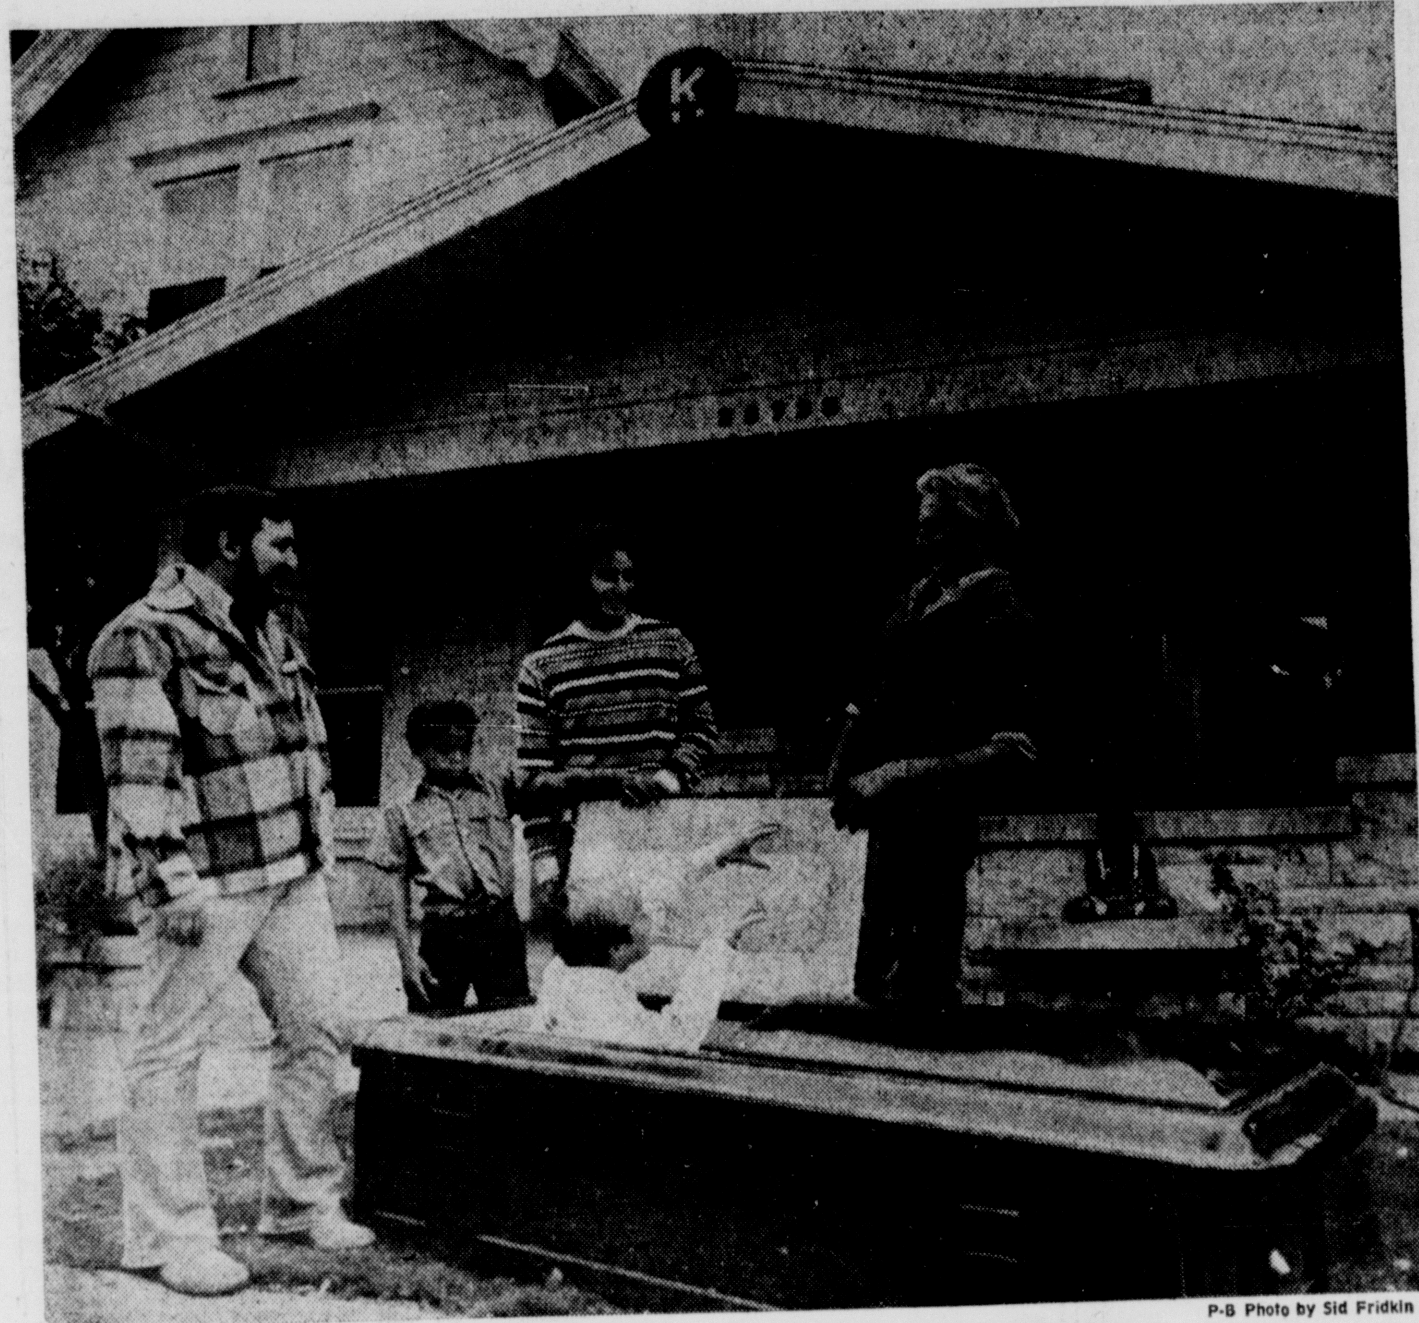

Their combined campaign activities have hardly caused a ripple in the community.

Whitlock is running a one-man campaign financed entirely out of his own pocket. He has held no coffees, banquets or meetings. He has done no mailing. He has done some newspaper advertising and retained an attorney to advise him.

Both Mrs. Montes and Mrs. Livingston have campaign committees, composed of community residents and have held small coffees and parties.

Both have conducted limited mail campaigns. Mrs. Livingston has done some newspaper advertising. Mrs. Montes apparently is the only candidate to put up campaign signs.

Her blackboard sign carrying its chalk message is evident in the community.

HAUNTED HOUSE FOR HALLOWEEN

The Circle K International Club of Cal Poly is decking out its home at 28738 Arrow Highway, Covina, to resemble a haunted house. The club, sponsored by Kiwanis, will invite boys from Le Roy Boys Home in

LET'S PRETEND

San Dimas youngsters are getting their costumes ready for the annual "Costume Capers" party at the Community Building of the civic center. Eric Dyck, 10, dressed as a dragon, has his hands full of pumpkins. Dean Lillibridge, 6, is Capt. Blackbeard and his sister, Daylene, is dressed as a tiger. Prizes will be awarded at the event for costumes. Admission is free.

GLACAA OPEN HOUSE

Charles Storing, Edward Corbett, GLACAA board chairman, and Sgt. Art Traber of the Pomona Police Department. The GLACAA open house was held recently to acquaint local residents and city officials with the agency's various programs for poor people. The local office is located at 1147 W. Holt Ave. in Pomona.

'Costume Capers' set for Thursday

The San Dimas Recreation Department will sponsor the annual Halloween party "Costume Capers" at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Community Building of the civic center.

Youngsters in costume will be eligible to enter a costume contest for the scariest, funniest, most original, cutest and most colorful. Prizes will be awarded in these categories.

Other events will include the cartoon "Magoo Meets Frankenstein" and game booths. Candy will be given to each child in costume and there is no charge for admission.

Lepire to rebut KNBC on Prop. A

Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire will appear Tuesday night on KNBC, Channel 4, in Los Angeles to speak against Prop. A on the Nov. 5 ballot.

Lepire's appearance is in response to a recent editorial by the television station in support of the ballot measure, which would add an additional one cent to the sales tax in Los Angeles County to finance a rapid transit system. The mayor's brief remarks will be telecast at 6:55 p.m.

Fall golf tournament set for Nov. 7 by C of C

The San Dimas Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the annual fall golf tournament Nov. 7 at the San Dimas Canyon Golf Course.

Starting times will be from 9 a.m. until 12:15 p.m. Julian Lobosky and Bryce Bailey are chairmen of the event. The deadline for reservations to the tournament is Nov. 5.

Trophies will be awarded for low gross and low net in established handicaps and two flights under the Callaway system. This will also include a women's division.

A no-host cocktail reception and dinner will be held at 6 p.m. in the Community Building of the civic center. Tournament awards will be presented after the meal.

The cost of the tournament will be $15 per person or $25 per couple. The price includes green fees, an electric cart and dinner. Additional tickets may be purchased for $3 at the chamber office.

GM third quarter profits in plunge

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. Friday reported third quarter profits of $16 million, off 94 per cent from last year's record to give the No. 1 automaker its worst nine-month performance in 16 years.

State senator for Washington tops the quiz

This newsmagazine hailed an "historic understanding" the U.S.-Soviet Union agreement to exchange "most favored nation" trade status for a relaxed emigration policy for Jews and other Russian nationals.

As a senator from the state of Washington, he was active in pressing for the agreement.

On page 11, you'll find him featured in the quiz, along with additional challenging questions about people and events in the news.

The quiz is published each Monday as a service to valley students. Answers to today's quiz questions may be found in the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association advertisement of page 12.

Announces plans for a $5.5 million fund drive

A $5 million increase in the current budget and a $5½ million fund drive over the next five years will be proposed to the board of trustees of La Verne College Saturday.

Trustees, at their semiannual meeting, also will be asked to approve the creation of a new position, that of vice president in charge of academic affairs.

The 11 per cent increase in the budget, from $4,341,864 to $4,851,683, is caused both by inflation and by expansion of college services, according to President L.B. Newcomer.

Approximately $137,000 more will be needed by the undergraduate sector; $51,000 by the graduate sector; $32,000 by the student sector; $139,000 by field studies; and $139,000 by general and administrative activities.

The college expects to generate $384,000 more in income as the result of those expansions, according to Richard Myers, vice president in charge of finances.

As for the fund raising campaign, the bulk of the money would go toward the retirement of about $3 million in bonds owed for the construction of the college's new Student Center.

Plans for the next five years also call for the modernization of the campus, the construction of a swimming pool and the building of a new law center, according to Steve Morgan, director of the college's development program.

Kickoff for the fund drive, if approved by the board of trustees Saturday, will be the New Era Banquet in March.

A revision is also in the offing in the college's academic leadership.

President Newcomer has informed the trustees that Margaret Preska, dean of the faculty since 1972, has asked to be relieved of that post effective next summer.

Newcomer said Mrs. Preska wants to return to teaching, research and writing. He is asking the board to establish the post of vice president in charge of academic affairs when Mrs. Preska completes her present term.

The board also will discuss students and faculty morale on the campus — a continuation of the spring report — and hear a report on faculty personnel policies.

The meeting will be held in the President's Dining Room in the college at 8:30 a.m.

Flournoy will make a great governor

If there are two basic attributes that we look for in a candidate for public office they are integrity and maturity.

Of the two men running to succeed Gov. Reagan we believe one candidate measures up to these standards through his exemplary public service.

We refer, of course, to Houston I. Flournoy who is widely known to valley residents, because before he went to Sacramento as assemblyman 14 years ago he was a highly respected professor of government at Pomona College. In fact, he still retains his official residence in Claremont and will cast his ballot there on election day.

Flournoy knows education, which is the state's biggest business, and he is equally informed on all of the state's other problems through his work as assemblyman and more recently as state controller.

Throughout his public career, Flournoy has been the epitome of Mr. Clean with a record of honest and efficient leadership in Sacramento. Although he may be considered somewhat liberal for some of his views on government's role and responsibility, he has a record that shows him to be a conservative when it comes to spending the public's money. We think this is significant.

By education, experience and maturity in matters that concern California and Californians, Flournoy is best qualified and best equipped mentally and physically to be the chief executive of one of the nation's most populous, important states. He will make not just a good governor, but a great one. The Progress-Bulletin recommends Flournoy's election on Nov. 5.

Needed control

When President Ford addressed the United Nations in his maiden foreign policy speech to that body he enunciated a rule that, if adhered to regularly in all foreign aid programs, would go a long way toward eliminating much of the waste and political failure that has too often marked our efforts to help the people of the world.

The President told the UN that this nation is prepared to increase its food assistance to the people of poor nations, in an extension of a tradition of a long standing. He also said we would join in an effort to negotiate an international system of food reserves—a keystone in any planetary plan to combat hunger.

His crucial statement, however, hit at the perennial weakness of such undertakings. He said that each nation must be permitted to decide the way in which it would manage its share of such a world-wide granary.

The President in this way made it clear that we are not about to contribute the largest portion of a food reserve to the tender, loving control of the United Nations. We are going to say where it goes, who gets it.

It is a clear cut statement of U.S. policy—an injunction that should be framed and hung on the walls of every state department office, every legislative office, and generously throughout the bailiwicks of anyone having any influence on the nation's foreign aid programs.

UnHalloween

It used to be great fun to write the annual Halloween editorial. You could let nostalgia run riot, relive for one happy night a world turned over to "the ghouls and ghosties and long-leggity beasts, and things that go bump in the night."

The times being what they are, and have been for too long, however, Halloween now seems an every night thing. The weird and the ghoulish, the spectral, the infringement on peaceful living have too much become the norm, if not the normal.

Man himself has become so much the goblin that it is difficult to tell which is witch.

Would that we could change all our Halloweens to something closer to the true spirit of the eve of All Saints Day; that we could come out from behind the hideous masks, get off our broomsticks, doff the sheets, and halt the depredations against others' property.

Would that the ghosts of Halloweens Past could evoke in all of us a more wholesome joy in living, in sharing, in understanding... as an everyday habit. And once again let Halloween itself be the one night of the macabre, a night of macabre make-believe.

A simpler night, when boy meets ghoul.

Transit system won't build itself

We've talked about rapid transit for 50 years. Now is the time to act. Traffic congestion is choking our streets. California automobiles are using a billion gallons of gasoline each month. Every day that goes by increases the cost of building a realistic transit system. We've spent the last generation in our cars with the windows rolled up, hoping the problem would go away. It won't.

It is unfortunate that Adrian Wright (Progress-Bulletin 10-21-74) does not realize that a YES vote on Proposition A will create an exciting and workable transportation system for Los Angeles County. Briefly, here is what the transit plan entails:

First, an immediate effort to improve bus service by at least 50 per cent. A thousand buses will be added during the next three years and other services such as mini-buses, park and ride lots, exclusive busways and contraflow bus lanes will be expanded. The near term transit improvement program will not only assure greater convenience and more frequent service on existing bus lines, it will also extend service to areas not presently covered. The El Monte busway will be extended another 30 miles to the Ontario Airport and a busway will be created on the Foothill Freeway.

The expanded bus fleet will, of course, also act as the basic feeder system for the high speed transit network which will be built. The construction of 145 miles of high speed fixed-guideway system is the second phase of the transit program. This system will serve all of Los Angeles County from Long Beach to the San Fernando Valley and from Santa Monica to the San Gabriel Valley and should be completed within 12 to 15 years. Eventually, a full 240 mile system is envisioned under the master plan.

None of us likes the idea of any kind of tax increase, but a transit system is not going to build itself. Every sizeable public transportation system in the United States is subsidized in some way. This measure provides for a one-cent sales tax increase to be utilized for both the near-term and the long range transit improvements.

It is estimated that this levy will generate some $200 million a year in transit revenue. Yet the cost to the average family of four living on a $15,000 income will be only a dollar per week. As well as paying for improved bus service and construction of a rapid transit system, Proposition A will guarantee the continuation of the 25-cent bus fare through 1981.

The plan is not perfect. It would be impossible to please everyone in Los Angeles County. The Pomona Valley is quite a distance from the central city and therefore will not benefit directly from the construction of the new rapid transit network immediately, but we will benefit from the improved bus service in the Pomona area and on the freeways and from the lowered fare.

As citizens of a larger community, Los Angeles County, we should be concerned about the benefits of greater mobility for the one million Los Angeles County residents who do not have access to automobiles, of a saving of $1,900 a year for the family which can go without that extra car because of improved public transit, of safer and less congested streets and highways, and of cleaner air for all of us to breathe. — Janet Gilkeson, president, and Judy Wright, transportation chairman, Claremont League of Women Voters.

How U.S. keeps prices up

WASHINGTON — While President Ford has called for sacrifices from the American people to curb inflation, he administers dozens of government programs whose explicit purpose is to drive up prices and hold them up.

Each was intended originally to help some new industry get started, to keep declining businesses from collapsing or to enable embattled farmers to weather the vicissitudes of the market.

But in their aggregate, they have sapped the efficiency of American production and victimized the consumers. Most of these boondoggles still survive long beyond their original purpose, because of the campaign contributions and political power of the special interests.

As part of our watch on waste, here are a few examples of how the government deliberately keeps prices from falling. What makes the irony more bitter is that the consumers are compelled to pay for their own fleecing, since their tax money issued to finance the price rigging:

—FOOD SUBSIDIES: For decades, the price of vegetables, fruits and dairy products have been driven up by government marketing orders which restrict production, limit interstate shipments and eliminate "excess" production.

Similarly, the government restricts the importation of cheaper meat cuts suitable for hamburger and sausages. Now thousands of poor people can't even afford hamburger.

Import quotas on dairy products result in higher cheese, dried milk and butter prices. Also, raw cotton, wheat and peanuts have been pushed up in price by government import controls. If the prices of these products should start to slip, the government can be relied on to boost them back up by making huge emergency purchases.

—TRANSPORTATION RATES: Some economists estimate that truck and rail rates are inflated 20 per cent because of Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) regulations, thus adding $16 billion in unnecessary consumer costs.

The ICC not only limits the entry of new competitors into trucking but also gives existing truckers antitrust exemptions to rig consumer rates.

On the other hand, ICC restrictions actually force trucks to travel costly, circuitous routes and to make many return trips empty. Other regulations prohibit railroads and truckers from lowering their rates when they wish to do so for competitive reasons.

The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) prevents air carriers from offering lower rates while forcing them to maintain unprofitable routes. At the same time, the CAB also keeps out competition. It recently turned down an application for Laker Airways, for example, to fly the New York-London route at about one-third the existing fares.

—GOVERNMENT INTERVENTIONS: While steel and textile prices climb steadily up, the government has negotiated import restrictions on steel and textiles. The effect is to block the imports that could push prices down. This holds true for many other products.

Government-sponsored "resale price maintenance" prevents merchants from lowering many prices at the retail level. And the Davis-Bacon Act drives up local construction costs everywhere by forcing the spread of high, sometimes exorbitant union wage rates. The result is that fewer and fewer consumers can afford construction, and more and more laborers are out of work.

PAUL HARVEY

Inequities that need overhauling

In the big brouhaha over high prices, everybody is blaming everybody else. Everybody's right. Most all Americans have allowed our dollars to wilt because we failed to water them with enough sweat.

But when the tumult and the shouting subside, we're going to discover that some of the people we'd thought were worth less are worth more—and vice versa.

The big shakeout. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Caspar Weinberger says, "Skyrocketing health care costs have been increasing 50 per cent faster than prices in the economy as a whole." He calls it an "outrage."

Well, now, wait a minute. Doctor bills and hospital charges have increased disproportionately; has it occurred to the secretary that perhaps they were disproportionately low?

The same abuse was heaped on farmers when they began to move up from the back of the bus, except that Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz stood beside them, shamed the critics by reminding them that our farmers have been harvesting less than a 1 per cent return on their investment, that it's time they got paid.

Similarly we, the people, have been conditioned to pay the average worker in the automobile industry $12,000 a year for a product that wears out or rusts out in five years.

Yet we scream resentment against the hospital employees who averages $7,000 a year while tending our greatest wealth—our health. There are many other inequities overdue to be overhauled, but let's consider this one further:

Bureaucrats—just granted another pay raise by Congress even over a presidential veto—are warning hospitals to control prices or else!

Hospital employees' salaries and fringe benefits are still less than that offered in either industry or government. And largely because of higher industry wages, the prices hospitals must pay for equipment and supplies have skyrocketed!

The paper, plastic and linen products a hospital must have are in short supply. Freezing the prices wouldn't help; that would further shorten the supply.

Government officials, responding to many pressures, perhaps necessarily talk out of both sides of their mouths. Out of one side they say, "hold costs down"; out of the other side they demand "improved quality and accessibility of health care services."

They can't have it both ways. More and more, government threatens to intrude on our nation's private health care system. Government has the world's worst track record for controlling costs.

Look at the astronomical budget for the Veterans Administration hospital system. Consider per diem costs, gross average length of stay, utilization, number of employees per occupied bed and then get on the end of a pencil and tell those bureaucrats to pick on somebody else. Our nation's community hospitals, for all their higher costs, are still a far better bargain than anything Uncle Sam has demonstrated.

J. K. (DOC) PEIRSOL

Just in jest

It's bad enough when one is confronted with statistics which show that 20,000 gasoline stations in the U.S. went out of business this past year — when one reads that inflation is boosting the nation's adult suicide rate alarmingly — But when one also learns that the cost of bubble gum has increased 100 per cent (from 1 cent to 2 cents) the horrible thought also arises: What indelible scars is inflation going to leave on the lives of our innocent, unsuspecting children?

But happily some of the country's outstanding business leaders are devoting more and more of their valuable time to studying and discussing ways and means to combat the problem. It's a matter of record, for instance, that one group of executives recently completed a 3-day anti-inflation conference in Las Vegas.

What's wrong with the average American? Well, according to the TV commercials, once you correct constipation, nagging headaches, loose dentures, stomach gas, arthritis, under arm odor and bad breath, he is in fairly good shape.

TOM TIEDE

Only evil if below the Mason-Dixon?

WASHINGTON — The civil rights struggle has come a long way in the last two decades—from Birmingham to Boston. But if the specter of northern whites violating the civil rights of northern blacks is shocking, it's not because it's new. Many areas of the Deep North have a longer and more varied history of intolerance than the Deep South. Prejudice and intransigence have existed in New England, for example, since the days of Cotton Mather.

Boston's busing dispute is by no means the best example of some Deep North attitudes toward brotherhood. Currently, it may be the election campaign in New Hampshire. Residents there are apparently ready to re-elect as governor, a man many feel is the most bigoted and intolerant public official in America. Writes a worried Concord voter: "Meldrim Thomson is Lester Maddox, George Wallace and Richard Nixon rolled into one puffy ball. But having lived in New Hampshire five years, I think we're getting what we deserve."

What New Hampshire is getting in Meldrim Thomson is mostly distasteful controversy. Georgia-born, a Wallace disciple, and one-time political husband of the right-wing American Party, Thomson, in his first term as state chief executive, has seldom been noted for anything except official mischief. A few weeks after taking office, for example, he ordered an investigation into the tax files of his political enemies and when the New Hampshire Supreme Court ruled it illegal, the governor said merely that he was entitled to interpret the Constitution as he saw it "and not as it's understood by others."

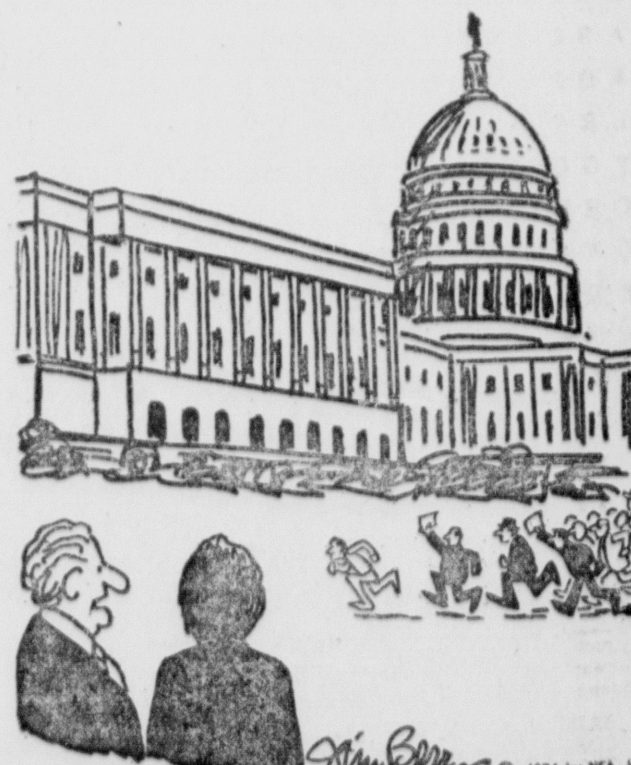

Since then, amazingly, he has: Threatened to go to war with neighboring states over borders and other disputes; arrogantly vetoed 23 bills during his first observation of a legislative session; banished a military recruiter from the state for dating the divorced daughter of a friend; refused to allow authorities to remove five battered children from a foster home because of his view that foster parents are all "patriotic"; banned and thus bankrupted a state literary magazine for printing a poem he felt pornographic; repeatedly referred to homosexuals as perverts from which the public needs protection, and ran his office, according to one former aide, "like he is God and we should all say our prayers."

True to his style, which is muscular, Thomson has never apologized for a wrong, nor even acknowledged an error. He says he acts, as George Wallace, for "the good of the little guys." He thus convinces some gullible Americans, easily the biggest guys on earth in terms of privilege and fortune, that his hand has been touched by propriety. Ageless propriety, to be sure. "My beliefs," says Thomson with conviction, "are rooted in the values of the 17th century."

So, it would seem, are the beliefs of many of his constituents. While it is true that Thomson's campaign lead is in part the result of having a hapless, unknown Democratic opponent, the first reason for his popularity is philosophic. He says what the majority wants to hear—that America is faultless, that anything different is suspicious and that status quo common sense, many fail to admit that when Thomson speaks of the American way, he means it, according to his terms.

And thus it is that this 61-year-old mossback appears destined for another term in the New Hampshire statehouse. But if that is unfortunate in some ways, there may be benefits as well. Perhaps a Thomson in the Deep North serves to remind the accepted wisdom that intolerance is not regional, but widespread, and narrow orthodoxy exists everywhere. Admitting this, all of us, even newsmen, realize that to the extent it has been singled out, the southern view of morality has been unfairly presented. It is hypocrisy to label in the North eccentricity what in the South is called evil.

Value of cigarette packs is just a lot of smoke

In a Los Angeles restaurant empty cigarette packages are being collected for time on a kidney machine.

We are told that a contribution of 100 packs will provide some patient with a minute of dialysis time. Is this correct? —S.P., Pomona.

As we wrote Sept. 11, we investigated similar collections in this area and concluded hundreds of people were innocent parties to a hoax.

This has been confirmed by tobacco executives.

According to a United Press International article originating in Hayward, Calif., the executives say the hoax is an old one, involving a rumor that has been going around for more than 20 years.

The rumor crops up all over the country.

False causes have led smokers to take packages to taverns, stores and even hospitals and a county sheriff's office.

Among these "causes" have been kidney machines, a respirator and a seeing eye dog.

Just to find out what would happen, we followed up your Los Angeles restaurant lead.

As we anticipated, nothing happened, not even an answer to the letter we wrote to the restaurant manager.

If you can't stop smoking, just throw the empty packs away.

Six months ago I ordered four curtains at a local branch of a large department store chain.

Since the curtains were not in stock, I charged the amount, $18.90, to my account.

I was told the curtains would be delivered directly to my home within three weeks.

Although I have never received the curtains, I have received a great many bills. I contacted the office numerous times and have been put off each time.

Salesgirls in the department were no help at all. I spoke to the department manager and was promised instant action.

After making three trips to see him when he failed to call me as promised, I was told the curtains were unavailable and my account would be credited.

This was three months ago. I was still being billed the following month when I contacted the credit department in Los Angeles. I was assured the charge would be removed.

A few days later I received a form to fill out to trace a lost shipment. I filled out the form but continued to be billed.

I wrote a letter to the customer relations office hoping my account would be straightened out.

Today I received a photo copy of the sales slip as a reply to my letter. I wrote a note on the back of it stating that I was giving up and that if I couldn't get through to the people at the store perhaps someone else could. —Mrs. H. B., Montclair.

We talked with a credit department representative at the local store and afterward sent her your letter to Action Line.

She wrote back an apology for the inconvenience to you. She said the order for curtains had been canceled and credit had been given.

You applauded us for responding to your curtain call.

Can't separate the mind from the body by a veil of cigarette smoke

Dear Ann Landers: You said in your column a while back that cigarette smokers are engaging in oral satisfaction that stems from an infantile and immature need.

Did you know that Dr. Sigmund Freud was unable to quit smoking—although he was well aware that his tobacco habit was extremely damaging to his health—because of certain physical disabilities which plagued him for years?

Freud's efforts to stop smoking lasted for nearly a half a century. He recounts his persistent craving and the "torture beyond human endurance" when he did abstain for a period of 14 months. Freud was, after all, a mortal man, but don't you think the father of psychoanalysis would have recognized the existence of a psychological problem, if there had been one?

What is there in tobacco that produces the craving? It is nicotine—and nicotine is habit-forming. I submit, the habit is more physiological than psychological, a problem of the body rather than the mind.—Another View

Dear View: You cannot separate the mind from the body. They are one.

Of course nicotine is addictive. So is alcohol. But no one knows why some people can use both in moderation and others cannot. The best authorities say the problem is both physical and emotional—but mostly emotional.

As for Uncle Sigmund, he had many hangups and suffered a great deal. Among other things, he was through with sex at 41. Well-balanced, he wasn't.

Dear Ann Landers: I was annoyed with your lack of support for the person who wrote about the miracles of witchcraft. Have you been living in a cave for the past ten years? Haven't you read about the miraculous things witches have done—both in laying on curses and removing them?

My sister-in-law, whose hands were covered with warts, went to a woman who practiced witchcraft. Within three weeks every one of those warts disappeared. And all she did was rub a little castor oil on them at night. Her son went to the witch the following month and was relieved of a terrible pain in his neck within four days. How do you account for these happenings?—A Believer

Dear B.: Any dermatologist will tell you that warts can be gotten rid of WITHOUT a witch if you put your mind to it and rub a little something on them at night.

As for her getting rid of the pain in his neck within four days — maybe his sister-in-law left town, or his boss took a trip.

Rattles & Straws

Politicians are usually polls apart

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

With elections looming again, it is sort of enlightening to examine the many ways in which a candidate seeks to curry favor, as they say, with a restive electorate.

A standard technique for the standard bearer is to point with pride to the advances that have been made during his tenure. All of the improvements in the country, he implies — and brags — were due to his being in office.

Pity then, fellow citizens, the plight of our current incumbents who can only look back on a political and economic shambles that they are, rightly or wrongly, held to blame for. I mean, we have to blame SOMEBODY, don't we?

The crumbling economy, phoney fuel shortage, Watergate, energy crisis, pollution, inflation, crime, corruption and confusion — the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse have galloped off in terror.

The wheat deal with Russia, meat price juggling, shortages and overages, staggering stock market, increasing taxes, oi veh! Now for the BAD news.

Okay, you are an elected representative of the people responsible to hundreds of thousands of voters for running the country. What should you do? My advice: take the pipe.

Japan's economy is flourishing and with the inscrutable wisdom of the East, the Japanese are buying our country. Who would want it? Give it back to the indigenes.

But we hold our politicians responsible for everything from drought and floods to parking tickets and when the World Football League, and today when they mount the soap box, they're just lucky to escape tar and feathers.

The best technique, as knowledgeable candidates know, is to blame the incumbent (unless it's you) for the mess we are in, and to ridicule your opponent's proposals for making this the best of all possible worlds.

"My worthy opponent," sneers the candidate, stressing the "worthy", "obviously has a very poor grasp of the economic situation we face today, and his proposals for fighting inflation can best be described as ludicrous."

The fact that the speaker's own plan for saving the nation is markedly similar to that of his "worthy" opponent, is not stressed. Both men promise to lower taxes, increase employment, get prices back to 1950 levels, and end pollution and the energy crisis. This technique, known as "pie in the sky," has been popular with political candidates at all levels since Ueless S. Grant occupied the White House.

"Fellow Americans — IF I am elected, I promise . . ."

Breast enlargers don't ever work

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a young woman of fair appearance. My problem may not seem extremely bad, but it bothers me a lot. My breasts are quite small.

People have told me different ways to solve my problem. These include exercise and breast enlargers advertised in the back of magazines.

I have tried the exercises and they didn't seem to work. I know it takes time, but I did do them for quite some time. Are the breast enlargers effective and are they safe? I am sure many women wonder about them.

DEAR READER — I receive an enormous amount of mail from women asking about small breasts and some asking about large breasts, and even some worrying about unequal breasts. So, you are not unusual.

The only exercises that are useful in increasing the bustline are those that increase the muscles of the chest wall. These muscles are the pectoral muscles under the breast itself.

Pushing the hands against each other and proper weight lifting-type exercises help to build these. When they enlarge, the breast, even if small, stands out a bit more.

A. Zoo men say no, nor does it sneeze. But they say such an ailing elephant gets depressed. Very depressed. And they have to feed it happy pills about the size of hen's eggs.

LOVE AND WAR

Our Love and War man is troubled. He says the typical unmarried girl who lives with a member of the opposite sex no longer refers to same as her "boyfriend." She now prefers to effect. If you hung your head down you could get some swelling, just as you can get swelling of the feet and ankles from being on your feet all day. The effect would be transitory swelling. You can see a variation of this in the puffy appearance around the eyes so common to many on rising in the morning.

You can get some improvement in circulation in the skin, at least temporarily, by doing exercises, particularly facial exercises or even bending exercises. You are familiar, I'm sure with the flushed face after exercise. That is about the best you can hope for.

Improving the circulation through the skin by exercise may improve your complexion. I think facial muscle exercises are useful to a limited extent too, but a slant board will not improve circulation through the skin, on the contrary, it can result in stagnation and pooling of blood in the skin that leads to swelling.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll have little patience with family situations you'd normally tolerate. You'll be a sterner disciplinarian than usual.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Restrictions placed on you today will be due to your own attitude. Don't paint yourself into a corner with negative thinking.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Friends you'll deal with won't react as generously as they usually do. Be sure to pick up your end of the tab voluntarily.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) To achieve your goals today you'll have to be a trifle thick-skinned and able to cope with a few setbacks. If you persist, you'll win.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be on your toes now so you can think your way around roadblocks that will be popping up. If one plan doesn't work, be ready to try another.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not a good time for you to get involved with persons in joint ventures unless each knows exactly what to expect from the other.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to try to dodge an issue because a difficult decision is involved. The easy answer you're seeking isn't there.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're apt to feel there's urgency where your work is concerned at this time, but don't let your own thoughts overwhelm you unnecessarily.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't gamble on other people or situations over which you have little or no control. You won't like the payoff.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try not to reawaken old issues that you and your mate don't see eye to eye on. It will spoil what could be a pleasant day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're better equipped today to do physical chores than those of a mental nature. Take a break from the brainwork.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Take a hard second look at anything that is passed off as a bargain. You could be taken advantage of if you're too impulsive.

Your Birthday, Oct. 29

This year you are likely to be given more work or career responsibilities. If you do a good job, something rewarding will result.

Ali losing voice, not zest for title fight

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — Muhammad Ali's voice comes out with the rasp of a knife being dragged across stone. If there is one thing he is more worried about than George Foreman's right hook, it is losing his voice.

He hasn't lost it completely yet, for which the promoters are thankful, and when he steps through the ropes Wednesday at 4 a.m. (7 p.m. PST Tuesday) to try to relieve Foreman of the world heavyweight title, it won't be a question of voice.

But right now he's like a radio with low batteries. "Too much hollering," says Ali, "too much noise. I got a call from Akron, Ohio, and they couldn't hear me. Imagine."

There is still enough volume to give the 200 or so reporters who have gathered, some for the second time, something to write, a fresh angle on an old story. But after six weeks of only his trainers, seconds and sparring partners to talk to, the sudden influx of faces and English-speaking voices strained even Ali's vast repertoire.

But the show must go on (or as the current saying in Zaire has it "no problem").

"All the smart money is on me," Ali insists. "I'm too fast for him. I'm too swift." And maybe even a realistic prediction. "I'll bruise him, I'll cut him, I might even drop him in 10."

Most of the Ali show is for the 200 Zairis who gather in the gym at N'Sele, 40 miles west of Kinshasa beside the river Zaire. He gets up and rolls his eyes. "I'm looking at this man Foreman as a Belgian." The crowd loves it.

And what of Foreman? With Ali on center stage always, it is a hard act to follow so he is not trying.

He stays cool and apart like an executioner whose job is simply to be in the right place at the right time. "I would like to knock Ali out," he says simply. "No, nothing personal. Just don't like to see anybody get hurt. That's why I like that. It's nice, peaceful." Foreman waits with manager Dick Sadler, his entourage and his Alsatian dog in the Intercontinental hotel in Kinshasa, sitting out the next 36 hours to the bell.

Ali has made a special and successful effort to get the Zairis on his side and when he weighed in Saturday night tipping the scales at 216 1/2 pounds to Foreman's 220 he had about 10,000 chanting for him. But he may have been surprised at Foreman's warm reception too—not as loud but certainly more than just polite.

Wednesday just before dawn the crowd won't matter, as both fighters know. Ali will be dancing like a butterfly, as he never tires of saying, and stinging like a bee. Foreman will be trying to knock him cold and that is the essence of the fight.

Ali can't dance 15 rounds and how soon he comes down off his toes depends on whether Foreman gets through with his heavy artillery early. When Ali does slow down he will be more vulnerable to a heavy punch.

But in his last 12 fights since May 10, 1971, Foreman has not had to go more than four rounds before decking his opponent. If things go beyond five, Ali with his longer, faster left jabs, could wear the champion down—or cut him.

The two-inch cut above Foreman's right eye isn't discussed in Foreman's camp. There's no question that it has completely healed, but there's no question either that Ali and manager Angelo Dundee don't need a magnifying glass to pick out a weakness.

When the sun comes up Wednesday it will all be over—a statistic with only its African flavor to set it apart from the others.

Each fighter will be five million dollars richer.

That's show business.

The fight will be shown in the mona area at the Fox Theater downtown Pomona and at Cal Poly Kellogg Gym. Tickets at the Fox can be purchased from 6:30 p.m. to midnight this evening at the box office while Cal Poly tickets are available telephoning 598-4611 or by visiting Ticketron outlet or the Cal Poly Athletic Department.

Andretti wins, so does Redman

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — All Brian Redman had to do was finish better than sixth.

And he did.

But he couldn't beat the guy who was chasing him for the series championship.

Redman, the Englishman from Colne, captured the 1974 Formula 5000 championship at Riverside International Raceway Sunday. The only setback in his championship showing was that he was outdone in the season's finale on the F5000 trail.

Mario Andretti, making a bid to win his first major auto racing championship in five years, easily won the 100-mile main event Sunday at RIR, but came up short of points in his quest for the F5000 championship.

With his second-place finish, Redman claimed his first Formula 5000 title with a total of 105 points. Andretti, the only man who could have caught the flying Englishman in the points race, ended up with 97 points. He was 13 points behind Redman before Sunday's finale.

"The car felt bad," revealed Redman, "and I felt bad myself. So I didn't want to take any big chances."

The only guy who gave Andretti and Redman a tough time was Bobby Unser, driving his USAC Olsonite Eagle-Offy in the SCCA event.

Unser grabbed the lead in the main event, under a minor protest by Andretti, but eventually dropped out of the race with engine failure.

So it was just Andretti and Redman battling it out in a very unexciting feature, which preceded two qualifying heats and a Bobby Allison win in the International Race of Champions' third leg.

But Redman never really threatened to take the lead in the race.

What was interesting is that both Andretti and Redman had their helmets stolen before the featured 100-miler. But only Andretti was at a disadvantage.

"The face shield on (Johnny) Rutherford's helmet (the one he borrowed for the race) was darker than mine," Andretti stated. "And as it got darker in the day it was getting harder to see."

Redman, however, didn't have any such problems. The Englishman had to borrow Jerry Karl's helmet, and it apparently wasn't much different than his own.

Andretti, after the victory, did have a few things to say about the Formula 5000 series and about Sunday's race itself.

"I expected Bobby to get the jump at the start of the race," he said referring to Unser's early lead. "But we shouldn't have gotten the green flag. I have the choice of how I want to pace the race (since I was on the pole), and I was looking for a slower start."

Bobby, however, had at least a three-car length on the little Italian as the green flag was dropped. "I think he would have beaten me into the turn anyway. He just has too much horsepower in that thing."

The thing Mario was referring to was the Turbo-Offy on Unser's car, used in USAC racing, as compared to the Lola-Chevy he used, the type SCCA uses in the F5000 series.

"I'd hate like hell for those Offys to get too much ground in this series," Mario exclaimed. "I don't want to see another monster created."

"It's a good idea for USAC and the SCCA to work together rather than fight against each other. But those turbos ruined the Can-Am series and I think they're hurting the USAC right now."

The estimated 20,000 fans at Riverside saw Warwick Brown, Al Unser and Graham McRae finished behind the two leaders. Andretti's victory had him clocked at an average of 122.172 miles per hour.

Allison wins IROC despite broken back

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

RIVERSIDE — The guy who comes into the game with a body wracked in pain to score the winning touchdown is an old sports legend.

But how about a driver who beat a field that included 11 other racing champions in a car he'd never driven before...and while running with a broken back?

Well, it happened Sunday at Riverside International Raceway as Bobby Allison, the 36-year old NASCAR Grand National veteran from Hueytown, Alabama, took the third leg of the International Race of Champions while suffering from a cracked vertebra.

Allison had been involved in a spectacular multi-car accident only 24 hours earlier starting the second IROC heat.

"Does it hurt?" Allison smiled after the race. "Yeah, but not as bad as it would if I'd lost."

The victory moved Allison into fourth place for the series with 33 points.

Emerson Fittipaldi, the 28-year old Formula One champ from Sao Paulo, Brazil paralyzed a first place on Saturday with a third on Sunday to take the points lead with 41.

Bobby Unser, 30, from Albuquerque, New Mexico finished second to Allison Sunday and grabbed second place for the series with 38 points. George Follmer, 30, from Huntington Harbor finished fifth Sunday and stands in third place in the point standings.

The top nine-drivers after the first three heats qualify for the "big" race February 14 at Daytona.

Moses suffers shoulder injury

SEATTLE — Washington halfback Wayne Moses, a sophomore from San Dimas High, suffered a shoulder separation in the Huskies' 6-0 rout over Oregon Saturday and will be lost for the season.

Moses, who had earned a starting assignment for coach Jim Owens' team, had rushed for 45 yards before being injured. For the season, the 5-foot-9, 176-pound back had gained 96 yards.

Royal Oak High product Mike Vicino stepped into score two touchdowns on runs of three and 22 yards. Vicino is a junior.

Fighters even says sparmate

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eddie Jones, a $500 a week sparmate to Muhammad Ali, says Ali and heavyweight champion George Foreman look about even for their title bout Tuesday night in Africa.

"Foreman's capable of taking you out with one punch," Jones said. "Ali is more of a boxer. I'd say it's a toss-up."

Jones, who made $9,000 the past four months as one of Ali's chief sparring partners, also helped the former heavyweight king prepare for his fights with Jerry Quarry, Joe Frazier and Bob Foster.

Lightning bolt saves Rams

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Los Angeles hierarchy had long faces.

The Rams made one of the most surprising trades in recent history Tuesday by sending John Hadl, the National Conference Player of the Year last season, to Green Bay for five draft choices.

The move insured James Harris of the No. 1 job and he was hardly building confidence in management's decision. The New York Jets, with only one victory in six previous games, led the Rams 13-7 late in the third period and owner Carroll Rosenbloom and General Manager Don Klosterman scowled and fiddled nervously as time ticked away.

Then lightning struck.

The bolt consisted of 6-foot-1, 205-pound Lawrence McCutcheon and he scored twice within a 31-second span early in the final period to lift the Rams to a 20-13 victory.

Harris, who seemed to have problems picking up secondary receivers, sent McCutcheon on bursts of six and 11 yards and then hit Harold Jackson with a 17-yard pass to the Jet 23 on the last play of the third quarter. McCutcheon needed just one play to score, hitting a wall of tacklers on the left side and suddenly breaking loose for a TD. David Ray, forced to make a 25-yard extra point because of a penalty, converted for the 13-13 tie.

On the Jets' second play, Joe Namath threw toward Jerome Barkum but Charlie Stukes stepped in front at the Jets' 42 and returned to the one before being hauled down. McCutcheon went over on the next play for the game-winner.

Oddly, the two scores were McCutcheon's first this season on the ground even though he entered the game as the NFC's leading rusher. The victory lifted the Rams to 5-2 and a two-game lead over New Orleans in the NFC West. The Jets dropped their fifth straight.

"We really tightened up in the second half," said Ram Coach Chuck Knox as a relieved Rosenbloom planted a kiss on his cheek. "This was the first time in a long time we were down and came back. I don't think we were flat today. Every time we got something going, we got a penalty. I knew this was going to be a tough game and I said so all week."

"Joe Namath still has one of the strongest arms in football and he throws as well as anyone in the game. I knew the Jets were a better team than their record showed."

Stukes said he took a chance and came up lucky.

"We were in a zone defense and I had deep outside coverage," he explained. "I took a chance, which I usually don't do. I just read the quarterback all the way. He was looking at his receiver and I decided to take the chance. The ball wasn't underthrown or anything—I just got a good jump on it."

"When you're flat both offensively and defensively like we were, you need one guy to pick you up and I'm glad I was that guy."

Harris took the Rams 76 yards in the first period, rolling out 12 yards around the right side for the score. But Ray's extra point was blocked and the Jets came back as Mike Adamle, subbing for the injured John Riggins, burrowed two yards for one score and Emerson Boozer ran 14 yards in the third period for another. Rookie Greg Gantt, place-kicking for the first time since freshman year at Alabama five years ago, converted after Adamle's score but missed after the second.

"That gave us a lift," McCutcheon admitted. "If he made it, we were eight points down and in trouble. He missed and we knew we could win with a touchdown."

Jet Coach Charley Winner called the performance, "The best we've played this year. It shows people this club has pride."

New York had two costly third-period penalties. On one, Namath passed eight yards to David Knight for a first down on the Rams' 14 but a down against Richard Caster for illegal use of hands negated it and the Jets went up punting. They then moved to the Ram 33 but a holding penalty forced them to punt.

"That first one was a real jerk call," Namath said, adding a few more choice adjectives. "Their strong side came up to play Caster close and they bumped into each other. I almost blew my top."

"I thought we played well but it wasn't good enough. We have to work on correcting mistakes, me included. Everybody knows what he has to do. The one-eyed monster (film projector) doesn't tell no lies."

Penguins visit Kings tonight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The division-leading Los Angeles Kings host the Pittsburgh Penguins in a National Hockey League contest tonight at the Forum.

The hot Kings, in first place in Division 3, have the best record in the NHL this season, except for the New York Islanders. Los Angeles is 54-18-10. The Islanders are 51-11.

The Kings beat the California Seals 5-1 Saturday night while Pittsburgh was edged 5-4 by the New York Rangers.

The contest was originally scheduled Tuesday night but had to be moved back because of the rescheduling of a George Foreman-Muhammad Ali heavyweight boxing match. The Forum is showing the fight on closed circuit television.

DRY(ER) DOCKED!

Lakers spurt, stagger, finally win

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — The Lakers probably came as close as they will come to having a laugh Sunday night.

Leading by as many as 21 points during the third quarter, the Lakers finally settled for a 123-116 win over the visiting Phoenix Suns at the Forum.

The victory allows the Angelenos to take a .500 average (2-2) on their first road trip. They'll visit Portland Tuesday and Seattle Wednesday. Both games will be simulcast on KABC radio (790) and KTLA (5) beginning at 8 p.m.

"The scary thing about Portland is you know they're going to get better and better," said coach Bill Sharman.

Sharman's own team seems to fluctuate between better and worse. Although Sharman denied it, the Lakers seemed to have a great deal of trouble when Phoenix went into a press Sunday night.

At any rate, after going 4:38 without scoring to open the second half, the Sun fell behind by as many as 21 points (68-47) and still trailed by 17, 88-71, after three quarters. But they battled back to pull within six points three times and five points once before time finally ran out.

Sharman got good production from his centers and guards. Gail Goodrich and Jim Price led the winners with 27 points each and Brian Winters had eight.

Elmore Smith and Zelmo Beaty accounted for 25 points and 12 rebounds between them. Beaty, playing only 16 minutes, scored 10 points and grabbed four rebounds. Smith blocked five shots and Beaty rejected one.

"Z (Zelmo) is in shape now," Shar-man said, "and that gives us a chance to rest Elmore and he doesn't have to pace himself."

The Suns had a night where, as Chick Hearn is known to say, they couldn't throw a pea in the ocean. The visitors hit on only eight of 29 field goal attempts (27.6 percent) in the first quarter and were lucky to finish the game with a 41.3 percent average, 48 of 116 shots.

After a cold start (33 percent) the Lakers finished with an even 50 percent, hitting on 41 of 82 shots from the floor. Simple arithmetic projects that to 96 points for the Suns to 82 for the Lakers.

But the Suns, an aggressive bunch of rebounders, kept fouling the home towners. The Lakers were the recipients of 57 free throws and sank 41 of them. Phoenix made 20 of 26.

Expect plenty of booing tonight in TV football game

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — When the Pittsburgh Steelers meet the Atlanta Falcons here tonight, the national television audience should not be surprised by the intermittent boos that reverberate through Three Rivers Stadium.

The fans here are unhappy with their

● KABC (Ch. 7), 6 pm

Steelers, a team that is leading the Central Division of the American Conference with a 4-1-1 record.

The crux of the unhappiness is the lack of an offensive punch and much of the fans' venom is being aimed at quarterback Joe Gilliam and Coach Chuck Noll. Noll remains adamant that Gilliam will continue to be his starting quarterback as long as the team wins.

One statistic that has the fans wondering is the fact that the Steelers have now played 18 quarters without mounting a scoring drive from their own territory. The defense has carried the load.

Noll refuses to comment on reports that he continues to use Gilliam because to bench him now might cause a racial split on the squad.

"I'm not going to get into anyone's theories or suppositions," Noll says.

"You can get screwed up that way."

"You have troubles any time you have three quarterbacks."

The two quarterbacking Terrys, Bradshaw and Hanratty, have been warming the bench since the season started.

Bradshaw asked to be traded when he learned that Gilliam was Noll's choice for a starting quarterback. Hanratty, a fan favorite from nearby Butler, Pa., also has been unhappy and would like to play for another team.

Noll's counterpart with the Falcons, making their first regular season appearance in Pittsburgh, would be the first to agree. Coach Norm Van Brocklin should know. He has three quarterbacks too.

In addition, he has an offense that has scored fewer points (53) and given up the ball more times (25) than any other team in the league for a 2-4 record.

The irony of the clash here is that the fans of both clubs are unhappy. Atlanta fans have been crying for Van Brocklin's head. Van Brocklin has blamed his woes on the player strike. His players have been blaming Van Brocklin and reports are that team morale can't get much lower.

The Steelers are favored by 13 points over the Falcons who lost to New Orleans last week, 13-3, which prompted Van Brocklin to lament that the setback was "an all-time low."

A cartoon illustration by Gil Elvgren. On the left, a man in a suit and hat stands in a doorway, looking surprised with his mouth open. In the center, a man in a shirt and tie stands inside, holding a small object in his right hand and a large newspaper in his left. The newspaper has a picture of a person on it. In the background, there is a table with a bowl and a vase. The artist's signature 'Gil Elvgren' is in the bottom right corner.

"No, thanks... we don't need a book. We have a teen-age son who knows everything!"

A black and white cartoon illustration. A man with a mustache, wearing a light-colored shirt, a dark vest, and trousers, is seated in a large armchair. He is holding a newspaper open with both hands and looking at it. A lit match is held near the newspaper, suggesting he is warming it. To his left, a young boy with dark hair, wearing a light-colored long-sleeved shirt and dark pants, stands looking up at the newspaper. In the background, there is a desk with a lamp, a framed picture on the wall, and a small table with a vase of flowers. The artist's signature 'Dick Winters' and the date '10-28' are in the bottom right corner. A copyright notice is at the bottom left.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DID THE BIBLE GET ITS NAME?"

THE BIBLE GETS ITS NAME FROM THE GREEK WORD "BIBLIA," MEANING "BOOKS," THE EARLY SACRED WRITINGS WERE WRITTEN ON SCROLLS AND WERE CALLED "BOOKS."

JOHNNY WONDER'S PUZZLE BOOK: 60 pages of fun and games. Order your book now. Send $1.25 to Puzzle Book, (1/4 this news paper), P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10015 of Bible in and back famous of all the world's books. It contains sacred, or holy, writings of two religions — Judaism and Christianity.

The Bible gets its name from the Greek word "biblia," which means "books," for the earliest sacred writings were at first called "The Books."

The Bible is really many books in one. The many books are divided into two great divisions, the Old and the New Testament.

The Old Testament records the history and religion of the ancient Jews under the laws that Moses gave them.

The New Testament tells the story of the life and teachings of Jesus Christ. It tells, too, about the beginnings of the Christian church.

The Bible is not only sacred, but perhaps nowhere are there any better stories or any more beautiful poems, letters, or prayers, or any wiser proverbs or laws. The Bible has been published in nearly every language.

A radio, camera, globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
